YOUNG HUGHES QUITS AS SIRE ACCEPTS POST

Proprieties Prevent Him
from Arguing Case Before New Chief Justice

TAKES PRIVATE DUTIES Appointment of Senior to Office Extremely Popular in New York

Washington—(AP)—Fate has removed from the government one of the most brilliant young men in it, namely Charles Evans Hughes, Jr., son of the chief justice of the United States.

As solicitor general, young Hughes
would have had to argue in the supreme court of the United States before his father and while there is no law to prevent it, nevertheless the proprieties have always demanded that judges on the bench should not sit in cases in which they might be in any way related to the persons arguing before the court.

Several weeks ago when a friend
was suggesting to young Hughes that as solicitor general he might be appearing in the supreme court
while his father was counsel for private companies in litigation with the government, the solicitor general remarked with a smile:

"Oh, that will never happen—I shall not let it happen."
The friend knew perfectly well the propriety involved but, professing innocence, inquired:

"Does that mean that you are afraid of being beaten?"

"Well," said the solicitor general with a twinkle in his eye, "you know that I leave the government
SOLICITOR GENERAL OFFICE

The "elder Hughes" is naturally proud of the law record that his son has made and was gratified when out of the clear sky, with no previous suggestion from the Hughes family, the president named Charles Evans Hughes, Jr., to the highest position in the department of justice,
next to the attorney general. Now, however, the son must bow to the father and leave the government solicitor general's office.

Young Hughes will go to New York probably to take over some of the work in which his father was engaged in private law practice.
In the elevation of Charles Evans
Hughes to the position of chief justice, there comes the climax to a series of circumstances, unparalleled
in history, which have intervened
the careers of the two who retire.

15 FINED OR SENT TO JAIL BY FEDERAL COURT

Madison—(AP)—Fifteen fines or sentences were meted out by Judge
R. C. Belzoni in United States District court here late Tuesday. Most of the cases were liquor law violations.

Among those fined or sentenced were: John J. Marshfield, liquor law violation, one day in jail; Ray Axford, Jamestown, liquor law violation, six months in Milwaukee
House of Correction and $500 fine; Jake Blackenthal, Jamestown, liquor law violation, 30 days in Danco-
jail.

Arthur Harris and Harry Hastings, both of La Crosse, three months in La Crosse county jail for aiding federal prisoners to escape. (Chas. Smith, Sankico, liquor law violation, fined $100; Andrew Baker, Rhinelander, liquor law violation, two months in Onondago jail; Theodore Placidi, Rhinelander, liquor law violation,
two months in Onondago jail; Peter Prazak, Rhinelander, liquor law violation, three months in Onondago jail.
Joe Decker, Jamestown, liquor
law violation, 30 days in Danco-
jail and the Wisconsin Creamery company, Sauk City, violation of the pure food law, fined $500.

HOUSE APPROVES FUND FOR GOLD STAR VOYAGE

Washington—(AP)—The Wood

BRADY JURY REPORTS HOPELESS DEADLOCK

Austin, Tex.—(AP)—The jury deliberating the case of John W.
Brady, former jurist, charged with the murder of Miss Leitia Highsmith, reported today it was "hopelessly" deadlocked.

The jurors received the case late yesterday. Only once before they retired at 12:35 a. m., word came from their quarters, and that was when they requested Judge J. D.
Moore to clarify some point in his charge to them.

The case was given to the jury upon completion of arguments by three attorneys on each side. Each was allowed one hour to present his case.

Henry Brooks, son of the defendent's former law partner, made the state's final argument. The youthful district attorney contended that Brady, in sound mind and with intention to murder, stabbed the woman to death.

STUDENTS NABBED IN SPEAKEASY FACE COURT

Madison—(AP)—Twelve of the 13
University of Wisconsin students who were arrested in a raid on an alleged "speakeasy" last night, were arraigned in superior court today and charged with disorderly conduct.

Most of the students gave fictitious names when arrested. One of them gave the address of a society house
as his residence. Two police squads battered through four doors in the place to find two points of alleged insurrection. The operator of the place escaped.

MUNN AGAIN HEADS GUERNSEY BREEDERS

Madison—(AP)—Dr. Wayne Munn, Janesville, was reelected president of the Wisconsin Guernsey Breeders' association here late yesterday. John Dowen, Barron, was elected vice president and Gavin McKerrow was reelected secretary-treasurer.

Bandits Rob Bus Driver And His Nine Passengers

Halt Iron Mountain-Green Bay Bus on Plea of Gaso- line Shortage

Iron Mountain, Mich.—(AP)—Two
of three men in a large sedan, pretending they were out of gas, stopped, and robbed the driver and nine passengers in the Iron Mountain-Green Bay bus late yesterday.

Shooting a hole in one of the bus tires, the bandits delayed it for half an hour and escaped, despite a search over all nearby roads by sheriff's officers from neighboring Wisconsin and Michigan cities.

The amount obtained was not learned, but the bus driver lost $40;
one passenger handed over $20 and a watch and another turned over $4 to the bandits.

The driver told of the robbery:
"We had just crossed the Quin-nessee bridge going toward Niagara
when I saw two men beside a car signaling me to stop.

"As I pulled up alongside, the two hopped into the bus and said they were out of gas. One went to the back of the bus and one stayed by me. He appeared nervous."

"We were just getting started when the fellow near me stuck a gun in my ribs and ordered me to stop and turn over everything I had. The fellow in the rear pulled out a gun and walked down the aisle, sticking the gun into the ribs
of the passengers and forcing them to give up cash and jewelry.

Finished, they got out and ran around the back of the bus. Their partner was beside the bus by that time with the big sedan. They they approached it, one of them said:
"Let's shoot a hole in the damn tires."

"They did, and it took me a half an hour to change."

Hanson reported to Niagara police and continued his trip.

Within an hour sheriff's forces
from Iron Mountain, Escanaba and Menominee, Mich., and Marinette, Wis., with Michigan state police,
were guarding all nearby roads.

The robber car was traced to Spaulding, where, after starting toward Menominee and Marinette, it doubled back toward Escanaba. The bus was one of the Wisconsin Motor Coach line.

NEGRO GIRL SAYS BANK BROKEN FOR GRAFT CASH

Oklahoma City, Okla.—(AP)—A 19-year-old Negro girl's story that Enrlishore officer broke open her china savings bank to collect "protection money" her mother was unable to pay, created a stir today in the federal court trial of persons charged with engaging in a liquor conspiracy in Pottawatomie co.

Continued processes of elimination
this morning had narrowed down
the list of defendants to 25, from the 192 originally indicted. John Reed and Joe Frank Williamson were dismissed on the motion of District Attorney Roy S. Lewis.

The child witness, Lennie Bell
Williams, testified that her "pops" bank was broken open in 1927 by a
"Mr. Lombard" who she said came to her mother's house to collect $5 protection money. The mother was selling whiskey and beer in addition to operating a restaurant and laundry.

DISCLOSE DETAILS OF JAIL BREAK ATTEMPT

Chicago—(AP)—Details of an escape plot in the Cook county jail, frustrated last Friday, were disclosed today.

Sixteen prisoners, including Samuel Homer, Dr. convicted slayer of William O'Brien awaiting sentencing to a life prison term, were isolated immediately, Dorr being placed in solitary confinement.

Although search of sawing were first detected three weeks ago, the exact cell from which the sounds emanated could not be located. Friday, prisoners were removed from all cells in the tier and under a bank in one of them, eight by ten inches, had been cut through the steel wall.

Had escape from the tier been successful, the prisoners would have been in an open corridor, enclosed by windows of the type recently smashed with a wooden bench in a

TAFT SHOWS SLIGHT GAIN, DOCTORS SAY

Washington—(AP)—A slight improvement in the condition of William Howard Taft today prompted Herbert Hoover to take advantage of this opportunity to call on his old friend who nearly a score of years ago held the office of president of the United States.

Hardly had Mr. Taft's physicians issued a bulletin at 1:30 p. m., saying the former chief justice was "slightly better" after a "quiet night" and a "comfortable" morning, than Mr. Hoover announced at the White House that he would call at the Taft home on Wyoming ave-
at 3:30 p. m. today.

Ever since Mr. Taft returned here yesterday from Asheville, N. C., Mr.
Hoover has kept in close touch with the condition of the patient. About the time the physicians' bulletin
was made public—and it was given to the press both at the White House and the Taft home—word reached the chief executive that Mr. Taft was able to leave his bed and sit in an easy chair.

Mrs. Taft also informed the president that Mr. Taft would be glad to see him.

Although physicians still regard
Mr. Taft as a seriously ill man, the

PRINCE CONTINUES HIS TRIP TO HUNTING AREA

Beira, Portuguese East Africa—
(AP)—The prince of Wales arrived here at 7:55 a. m. today after a long railway trip from Capetown by way of Bulawayo, southern Rhodesia.
After saying farewell to the railway officials who had accompanied his train he and his staff boarded the steamer Modasa which left immediately for Mozambique, British east Africa.

The Portuguese governor and the captain of the schooner Admonator, lying in the harbor, greeted the travelers who are enroute to the scene of the prince's African hunting expedition, interrupted more than a year ago when his father, King George, became ill. A large crowd on the quay cheered lustily as the party embarked.

ESCAPES JAIL, SEES GOVERNOR, RETURNS IN LATTER'S AUTO

Phoenix, Ariz.—(AP)—Dave Garcia escaped from the Mesa, Ariz., jail but as a result of an interview with Gov. John C.
Phillips, he was back behind the bars today, having returned in the chief executive's automobile.

Garcia, a minor, was arrested on a bad check charge, and must be returned to the state penitentiary at Florence, Ariz., as a parole violator. He dug his way out of jail yesterday by chipping the mortar from between bricks
in the wall with a spoon, and came straight to Phoenix to call on Governor Phillips.

The governor said the boy asked him advice about going to California and he advised that he should stay in Arizona and work until he was old enough to be sent to jail. As the youngster seemed anxious to follow the suggestion and had no means of transportation, the governor sent him back in his car.

Democrats Win 1st Test Of Strength On Tariff

Washington—(AP)—Dramatic contrasts, the votes and frontal
rounding up of absent members
today of the Democratic vote in the pending tariff bill, the Democrats finally winning the first test of strength by carrying a preferred to cut in half the existing rate of 5 cents a pound on such articles, a material used in agriculture. The vote was 41 to 30.

Taking note left undisturbed so far in the Hawley-Smoot bill, Senator Barkley, Democrat, Kentucky, proposed the reduction on a proviso. The Republicans opposed the amendment, claiming it was a tie vote seemed in prospect.

That meant defeat for the Democrats. Senator Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, voted to have the proposed reconsideration of the bill. In dashed Senator Tydings, Democrat, Maryland, his vote would have given his party the victory but

Seven Fall In Outbreak During Week

Chicago—(AP)—Two murders, one to the music of radio, the other to the chatter of children's voices, kept Chicago's crime wave pounding steadily along today.

When two men saw Philip Marchese, a racketeer, near the Irving school at Lexington-st. and Heyne-ave. yesterday, it made five gang slayings in six days. When, last night, several men killed Joseph Buckner in his home, turning up the volume control of the radio to down the sound of their shots, it made six. In addition, two men le-thally wounded in People's hospital, victims of gang attacks.

Marchese was well known to police as a gunman. In 1928 he was accused of slaying another gangster, but the case was nolle prossed.
Not much is known of Buckner.
Neighbors said the man, about 40
years old, was in the grocery business. He was alone in his well furnished flat on West-118th when two men called last night.

Elizabeth Padzun, who conducts a grocery business on the ground floor of the two story flat building,
heard the men when they arrived,
and heard Buckner admit them. A few minutes later they were the found of voices rising in argument.
The music from the radio in the Buckner flat increased in volume,
and a moment later Mrs. Padzun heard the men running down the rear steps.

She was unable to enter the Buckner apartment because of the spring lock, and called police. When they forced the door, they said, the radio was blaring away with "Hall, Hall, the Gang's All Here," and Buckner's body lay on the floor, faced down. Despite the noise from the radio, Mrs. Padzun said she heard the thud of Buckner's body
when it fell, and it was this that led her to investigate.

Although the Marchese murder
was committed within sight of several persons, including school children, none could be found today
who was able to give a description of the slayers. Henry Iovono, was standing not far away, said:

"I heard two shots. I saw Marchese stagger and fall. Two men were running away. I can't describe them. They were just men—running—that's all."

The alarm was spread by children who pulled a fire-bell.

A 22 calibre revolver was found nearby. It was being examined today for fingerprints.

BALDWIN APPEALS FOR FRANKNESS FROM LABOR

London—(AP)—Stanley Baldwin, former Conservative premier, in outlining policies of the Conservative party before a big gathering of his supporters at the London Coliseum this morning, declared that if the labor party wanted the support of the conservatives they must give an international attitude there will be no more frankness on the part of the government's opponents than has been in the past.

Referring to the naval conference,
Mr. Baldwin said that the government had not been more than fair in the matter of the tariff bill. He said that the party had not been entirely frank in the past but that he considered the government was entitled to more information than it had received. He remarked that the labor party for the first time
had been frank in the past.

COMMUNITY CHEST WINS PRAISE FROM PRESIDENT

Washington—(AP)—President Hoover today praised the work of the Community Chest, which has raised over $1,000,000 for the relief of the unemployed and the needy.
The president said that the work of the Community Chest was a fine example of the spirit of coopera-characterize the people of this country.

REPORT FAVORABLE ON STAR SPANGLED BANNER

Washington—(AP)—A committee of the House of Representatives today reported that it was favorable to the adoption of the Star Spangled Banner as the national anthem.
The committee said that it had received many suggestions from citizens and that it had carefully considered them.

BELIEVE 2 DEAD MEN KILLED IN GUN DUEL

Cumberland, Md.—(AP)—Bodies of William Borror, 40, and Paul Morris, 37, were found today in Borror's garage at Ridgeley, W. Va., near here in positions indicating each had shot the other to death. After several hours, identity of the youth was definitely established by a friend who said Morris once told him of robbing the Borror garage.

PREMIER SEES REDUCTION IN LAND FORCES

London—(AP)—An international de-armament conference dealing with land as well as sea powers after the five power conference has been completed was projected by Prime Minister MacDonald today.

The prime minister, making to a question as to whether he would consider calling a conference of the great powers with a view to reduction of military forces, pointed out that the disarmament problem, including land forces, had been under consideration by the league of nations for some time.

"I hope that at the conclusion of the five power conference a further meeting of the preliminary commission on disarmament will be held
which will enable the next assembly of the league to arrange for summoning an international disarmament conference."

STIMSON MEETS JAP

While one section of the five power naval conference is discussing technically, Col. Henry L. Stimson, head of the American delegation, is attacking a problem, much more concrete, one involving facts and figures, to wit, battleships and submarines.

Meeting yesterday in private conference for the first time since the naval parity opened October 28th, son and Hergo Wakatsuki, head of the Japanese delegation, and their aides and advisers, formulated a decision of the capital significance of their government, the people's for their limitation, and the matter of abolition of submarines.

It had been supposed when the representatives of the two nations met that Japan's contention of an allotment 10-10-7 cruiser ratio was to be taken up. At the conclusion of the meeting, however, it was found that the Japanese had passed to a new plan.

A spokesman for the Japanese however, said that the cruiser ratio demand was the Japanese position, and that the Japanese had been mentioned only as a point of discussion. It was understood that American and Japanese were together on the matter of prolonging age limits of battleships
but could not agree on a compromise.

American and British spokesmen of the under-arms pact, said that neither side was willing to discuss other powers, but was up to the meeting for a compromise. The House Gets 552 Million Bill For Independent Offices

VETS' BUREAU GETS LARGEST PART OF FUND

$511,225,000 Asked—Total of Bill Is 141 Million Below Current Year

Washington—(AP)—Carrying $511,225,000 for the veterans' bureau, the 1931 annual supply bill providing $552,122,212 for 18 independent government offices and agencies was reported today to the house by its appropriations committee.

The total is $141,687,226 less than the outlay for the current fiscal year. It is $1,511,825 below the budget estimates.

The reduction was brought about in the appropriation for the Federal Farm board. The measure did not increase the $50,000,000 farm loan revolving fund created for the current year. Actually, with this sum omitted, the committee explained, there was an increase of $5,312,373 over the current year.

In reporting the measure, the committee explained that officials of the farm board were unable at this time to estimate how much of the $50,000,000 previously authorized would be required for 1931 farm relief work. However, the board was allowed $1,700,000 for administrative and cooperative marketing expenses, of $200,000 less than the budget estimate.

GOES TO PRISON, SAYS HE'S BEEN IN REFORMATORY

Des Moines, Iowa—(AP)—Because he wanted to try something new, Roy Mickle, 28, owner of a 16-year police record today awaited his removal to the state penitentiary at Fort Madison.

Mickle was found guilty of stealing an automobile and Judge O. S. Franklin sentenced him to 10 years in the state reformatory at Anamosa.

"I've been there before and if it's just the same to you, judge, I'd rather go to Fort Madison this time," Mickle told the court. Judge Franklin pondered a moment and then granted the request.

Mickle was first sentenced to the State Industrial school at Eldora in 1913, when he was 12 years old. In 1919 he was given 10 years at Anamosa on a breaking and entering charge. He was released in 1923 when he broke his parole. Later he received an additional five years for breaking prison.

FARM BOARD'S BIG JOB TO HELP OTHERS TO HELP THEMSELVES

Chairman Says Group May Ask Additional Appropriation from Congress

Washington—(AP)—The big job of the Federal Farm board in bringing about farm relief is to help the agricultural interests to organize so they can help themselves, in the opinion of Chairman Legge of the new government agency.

Legge testified before the house appropriations sub-committee today that the board might ask for the next fiscal year in which $1,700,000 was set aside for its organization. He said the "loan feature" is very helpful in working out these organizations, but we do not regard it as the most important function of the board.

Legge said that before congress adjourned the board might ask for a supplemental appropriation to the revolving fund but that the longer the time was delayed "the better case we can make as to what is going to be required."

"My offhand guess," he added, "would be that we would ask you to set aside another $100,000,000 or $150,000,000."

In a statement filed with the committee, chairman Legge showed that 119 applications had been filed for loans totaling $111,625,000; 79 approved, amounting to $66,236,000; and a total of $17,796,000 advanced. It showed that 119 applications totaling $3,597,000 had been refused, and the remainder still were under consideration.

Of the approved loans, cotton cooperatives received $26,095,000; grain, $11,138,000; livestock, $5,600,000; dairy, $3,330,000; fruit and vegetable, $13,615,000; honey, $135,000; and wool and mohair, $1,275,000.

Legge said the board was trying to set up a foreign crop reporting service, because there "is something wrong with that proposition" of competition with foreign farm products, particularly cotton.

"We have got to go into this proposition as to what can be done to put our growers on the competitive basis as to both quantity and quality," he said.

22 COUNTY DENTISTS HEAR CHICAGOAN TALK

Dr. H. C. Cramer, in charge of the dental research department of the O. Smith organization in Milwaukee, addressed 22 dentists at a dinner meeting of the Conway hotel Tuesday evening. His subject was the diagnosis and relation of focal infection in the human body. Dr. Cramer presented X-ray pictures of some of his findings.

ZUEHLKE RESIGNS AS CAMPAIGN HEAD, SCHMIDT ELECTED

Campaign Committee Chairman Says He Is Unable to Continue With Work

The resignation of E. J. Zuehlke as chairman of the City Manager Campaign committee and the appointment of Robert O. Schmidt, president of the Standard Manufacturing Co., was announced yesterday afternoon following a meeting of the committee in the City Manager campaign headquarters, Whedon building.

"I have been committed to the city manager plan of government for years and will continue to do all that I can to secure its adoption in Appleton," Mr. Zuehlke said.

Mr. Schmidt has been a member of the executive committee in charge of the city manager movement since its inception in Appleton and has been one of the leaders in the campaign.

Mr. Zuehlke's resignation was accompanied with considerable regret by the committee which unanimously adopted commending his work as chairman and thanking him for his efforts.

Preparations for an intensive campaign which will inform every person in Appleton about the city manager plan were discussed by the committee. It is expected that this campaign will get underway about the beginning of March.

MOSQUITOS DUE FOR BIG YEAR AS FUNDS FOR BATTLE VANISH

Evansville, Ind.—(AP)—Looks like a big year for mosquitoes and a year for big mosquitoes. President Arthur Stricker of the North Shore Mosquito Abatement district makes the biting statement. "We have fought the mosquito pest with great success in the past," he said in his annual report, "but it seems we must now give up the battle because we have no more money and can't get any more."

This phrase "no more money" is being heard quite a bit in Cook county lately.

STUDENTS ATTEND SCHOOL REGULARLY

Teachers Report Names of Rural Pupils With Good Records

Six more rural schools have reported to A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, the names of students with perfect attendance records. Under a recent plan instituted by Mr. Meating the rural school teachers will now report to his office each month the list of students who have perfect attendance records. Following is a list of the latest reports with the name of the teacher and students which have the good records.

Badger school, town of Grand Chute, Arnold Krueger, teacher; Clara E. Hinzman, Hazel Krueckeburg, and Lucille Smith, perfect records for first half of year.

Crystal Springs school, town of Seymour, Miss Corinne Ottman, teacher; Robert Vosters, Evelyn Vosters, Lester Karwelck, Archie Court, Earl Brick, John and Nellie Kneisler, Carl Heinrichs and Florence Brick.

Triangle school, town of Grand Chute, Miss Evelyn Solie, teacher. These Stoffel, Arnes Stoffel, John Berg and Edwin Weber.

LaFollette school, town of Ellington, Mel Wilson, teacher, Marcelle Wittlin, Lyla Riehl, Evelyn and Myrtle Wittlin, Dorothy Dorn, Gertrude Klitzke, perfect records for January.

Elms school, town of Hortonla, Miss Viola Schlamm, teacher, Lewis Alfred and Elsie Bellie and Carl Magazand, perfect records for January.

Hickory Grove school, town of Dale, Miss Evelyn A. Sweeney teacher; Virginia Marten, Erdine and Carl Roessler, Gertrude Borgwardt, Ruth Brehmman, Doris Marten and Catherine Schumacher, perfect records for half year; Shirley and Bernice Dorschner, perfect records for four months; Eugene Niemuth, Bayward and Gilbert Dorschner, Virginia Diley, Wilmer Marten, Charles Gore, Adeline Moller, Pearl and Bernice Beckman, perfect records for three months; Gerald Goss, Eudal Runnling, Charles Fielding and Robert Niemuth, perfect records for two months; Luella Prewittling, Dorothy Schultz, Emory Danke, Lee Ruwalling, Gerald Gore, Jessie Sewall, Bernice and Jeanette Fielding, perfect records for one month.

DAMAGE SUIT PUT OFF UNTIL JUNE COURT TERM

Word has been received here that the suit to collect damages from the Chicago and Northwestern railroad for the death of Eugene Curran, Fond du Lac, scheduled for trial at Winona, Minn., on Jan. 29, has been postponed until the June term of court. The postponement was granted at the request of lawyers representing the administrator of Mr. Curran's estate.

SENATE GETS NEW REPORT ON LOBBYING

Activities of Importers Set Forth by Robinson After Inquiry

Washington—(AP)—Activities of importers and others interested in lowering tariff rates were reported to the senate today by its lobby investigating committee.

The report, prepared by Senator Robinson, Republican, Indiana, gave first attention to the National Council of American Importers and Traders, Inc., during 1929. The report said the council was quite active and through its personnel and various branches expended large sums both in Washington and New York.

The report added that the council was "particularly successful in its effort to employ men who had been connected with the customs and other branches of government service."

A letter sent out by the council soliciting funds to carry on the "lobby activities" was put in the report. Some members were asked for $100 for others for $250, the report disclosed.

The cost of the publicity bureau set up by the national council was reported by the committee as $5,575. The committee also reported that Samuel Kridl of New York City, spent $18,000 in 1929 "to keep down the tariff on silk and expected to spend the same amount this time."

DELAYS REPORT ON KING

Senator Robinson withheld any report on the inquiry into activities of the German dye industry and on the investigation of payments to the campaign funds of Senator King, Democrat, Utah, pending recovery of the Utah senator.

The committee report stated that Arman C. Staffer was employed by the silk defense committee for $12,500 and expenses to assist "in keeping down the tariff on silk."

"All he says he did," the report said, "was to submit some facts and figures and data. He made some 15 trips from Chambersburg in 1929 and two trips in 1930, for which he has charged an expense of $4,000."

The report listed Harry S. Radcliffe of Montclair, N. Y., as spending for the national importers council $16,800 in behalf of lower tariffs. The report showed expenditure of $16,000 for maintenance of a Washington office for the National Retail Dry Goods association.

SAPPINGTON DISCUSSES PLANS TO AID COURSE

Dr. C. O. Sappington, Chicago, medical director of the National Safety council, who gave an illustrated lecture at the general meeting of Appleton Safety school at the Conway hotel, Tuesday evening, spent Wednesday conferring with school officials on safety problems. He also expects to hold conferences in other cities in the valley before returning to Chicago.

He discussed plans for organization of a class in practical first aid. It is expected that within the next week or so a 10 period class of two hours each will be organized at the vocational school for industrial workers who are members of the Appleton Safety school, according to Mr. Heilig.

CHAMBER SECRETARY GETS 2 APPLICATIONS

Two applications for memberships have been received by Kenneth Corbett, secretary of the chamber of commerce. The applications will be submitted to the directors Friday for consideration.

Talks To Parents

OUT OF WEAKNESS
By Alice Judson Peale

From the time she was 6 until she was 12, Eileen was ill in bed most of the time.

She had scarlet fever, typhoid, and inflammatory rheumatism of the heart, which left it in such a weakened condition that for two years she was not permitted to walk up a flight of stairs.

She developed St. Vitus dance. Her hands twitched constantly so that she spilled her soup at table. She stuttered when she spoke and was cruelly made fun of by other children.

So serious was her physical condition that she was sent to a school in the country and given an even chance for her life by the doctors.

Six years later, partly through the excellent care which she received, but quite as much through her own indefatigable perseverance this girl had learned first to take long walks, then to play basketball, and to swim so well that she passed all the life saving tests. In her last year at school she actually won her letter as captain of the hockey team.

Out of her greatest weakness this girl made her greatest strength. It is often so, not only on the physical, but also on the mental and emotional levels. The psychological mechanism involved in the well known one of compensation.

There is much to be said for helping a child cheerfully to face his handicap, whatever it may be. He may then either compensate for it directly by sheer strength of will and perseverance, or if the odds against him are too heavy he may be stimulated to the development of special abilities in other fields.

Many people of outstanding force and success, Theodore Roosevelt among them, have been spurred to their achievements by the drive of an initial handicap.

LEGION READY TO BEAUTIFY DRIVE

Want Council to Seek Bids Constructing Curbing

Definite plans for the beautification of Memorial Drive by the American Legion post were made Tuesday night by a committee at a dinner meeting at the Conway hotel.

The committee will request the common council to advertise for bids for the construction of the curbing in accordance with plans adopted last fall. Landscape artists will be asked to submit plans for a beautification of the boulevard and for specifications for the proposed gateway at the south entrance of the drive.

Members of the committee are L. Herb Heilig and other vocational school officials on safety problems. He also expects to hold conferences in other cities in the valley before returning to Chicago.

Film Players May Battle Move To Annul Marriage

Los Angeles—(AP)—First intimacy that Grant Withers and Loretta Young, film players, will not calmly submit to an amicable annulment of their recent Arizona airplane wedding appeared in an announcement today by George U. Belzer, stepfather of Miss Young, that the girl was missing from her mother's home.

Belzer said Miss Young had been away for two nights and had not communicated with her mother, although it was understood she was to make her home with the Belzers until the pending court action on the recent marriage is completed. The annulment suit was filed by Mrs. Belzer, and at that time it was reported the newlyweds had agreed to the separation plan and would wait until the bride had reached the age of 18.

The bride's parents revealed today, however, that Withers apparently looked with disfavor upon the annulment and had countered with a demur to the action.

"The apparent friendliness of Withers and Loretta toward the annulment proceedings," Belzer said, "was nothing but an attempt to fool Mrs. Belzer. They took that friendly attitude so they could disappear, as they have done now."

Belzer said the annulment action would be prosecuted vigorously, although he admitted that efforts of himself and Mrs. Belzer to locate Withers and his bride had been unsuccessful.

Inquiries for Miss Young or her husband at an exclusive apartment leased by Withers shortly before making the airplane trip to Yuma, Ariz., for the wedding, were met with a reply from an attaché that "Mr. and Mrs. Withers are out for the evening."

HOAN TO ADDRESS CHAMBER MEETING

Milwaukee Mayor to Speak on Community Spirit and Government

Community Spirit and Government will be discussed by Mayor Daniel W. Hoan of Milwaukee at the chamber of commerce forum dinner meeting at the Conway hotel at Thursday evening, Feb. 20.

An elaborate program of entertainment is being arranged by the committee headed by Martin Van Rooy. Musical numbers, dances, and other entertaining features will be on the program. Members of the chamber of commerce and their wives are to be invited.

HOME MERCHANTS PLAN DRIVE FOR MEMBERS

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Appleton Home Merchants' association Monday night Stephen Balliet, president, was instructed to appoint several committees, to supervise publicity, entertainment and membership. The organization plans to conduct a membership drive as soon as the membership committee has been appointed. After the organization has been perfected, according to President Balliet, monthly meetings will be arranged.

Over Billion Spent For World War Vets Insurance

Washington—(AP)—The government has expended approximately $1,250,000,000 provided for the insurance for members of the naval and military forces engaged in the World War. $750,000,000 more than has been collected in premiums.

These figures were cited by Director Hines of the Veterans bureau before the house appropriations sub-committee in justification for the $112,500,000 increase provided for the bureau in the independent offices supply bill for the fiscal year 1931. The bill as reported provides $511,225,000 for the bureau, of which $120,000,000 would be expended for this insurance, $4,750,000 more than last year.

In addition to past expenditures for this purpose, Director Hines said, the government faces a future liability of about $1,350,000,000 which must be met by appropriations in years to come.

The upward trend of military and naval compensation awards for veterans of the last war accounted for another large increase in the bureau's appropriation for 1931, $195,600,000 being carried for this purpose as compared with $191,450,000 for the current year.

The present rate of disability applications, Hines told the committee, indicated that by June 30, 1930, there would be a total of 274,158 active awards of disability compensation, with an average monthly payment of $46.93 per award. More than 10,000 applications for compensation were filed in the first four months of the fiscal year 1930, he added, making an average monthly rate of about 2,511. Records of the bureau show that about thirty per cent of the applications are granted, he said.

To meet the ever increasing demands of veterans for medical and hospital treatment, the bill carries $106,000,000, an increase of $5,950,000 over last year.

DANIEL FINISHES VIOLIN SONATA IN THREE MOVEMENTS

Lawrence Professor Nears Completion of Another Sonata for Piano

Cyrus Daniel, professor of theory and composition at the Lawrence Conservatory of Music, who has returned from eight months of foreign study in Vienna and composition, has written a violin sonata in three movements, and outlined the third of a complete sonata for piano.

In addition to his composition work in London with York Bowen of the Tobias Matthay School, and the Royal Academy of Music, Daniel took three months of intensive technical training in organ with Joseph Bennett, organist of St. Dunstons, Paris. Daniel resumed his work at the Conservatory as professor in charge of the department of theory and composition with the opening of the new semester today.

During his stay in London, Daniel has been performing in public the will be given at the Lawrence Conservatory of Music before the close of the current term. Probably the second of the series of the unfinished sonata will be done in public, while the first violin sonata will be given. The sonata is one of the most difficult pieces of music and composition because of its unbridled and emotional plan of contrasting and recurring themes, and because of the high creative originality it demands.

York Bowen, who kept Daniel at work on composition until his sonata were finished, is a pupil of the great Tobias Matthay, internationally known as a teacher of teachers. Bowen, with whom Daniel studied organ technique, is famous as a contemporary composer of program pieces. His "Caprice Heroique" is perhaps the best known of his works. Daniel studied Bowen's own compositions and did some work on Bowen's fugues with the French organist.

Daniel, who is a Fellow of the American Guild of Organists, has been with the Lawrence Conservatory of Music for four years. He took his undergraduate work in liberal arts at Shurtleff College, Alton, Ill., and was later granted his M. A. from Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill. Previous to his study abroad in England and on the continent, he studied composition with Arne Oldberg, Carl Doering, and Peter Christian Lullin. Daniel has had experience as a teacher of Harmony, counterpoint, form and analysis, composition and ear training.

37 LICENSES REVOKED BY STATE LAST MONTH

A total of 37 drivers' licenses were revoked in the state during January, according to a report received this week by Police Chief George T. Peim from the secretary of state. Two of these were from Outagamie, while other counties in this vicinity which had drivers' license revocations were Fond du Lac, 1; Winnebago, 2; and Brown, 1. The revocations ranged from three months to one year, with three months predominating.

For the first time this year the new state law which provides for revocation of licenses of drivers who cannot pass judgment secured against them as result of accidents was called into use, the secretary's report shows.

A Milwaukee driver, against whom a judgment was secured, was unable to pay and his drivers' license has been revoked until payment has been made. This new law was made by the state legislature with the view of persuading all car owners to carry liability insurance which will protect them in case of accidents.

APPLETON APPROVES PLAN TO AID FLIERS

Frank Appleton, county highway commissioner, favors the suggestion of W. C. Buetow, state highway engineer, that highway numbers should be marked on the pavement to guide fliers. Mr. Buetow made his suggestion in an address at the annual road school at Madison last week. He pointed out that the numbers would also be accompanied by arrows to guide fliers in the right direction. Maps of the state, made especially for aviators, would indicate the numbers and their locations and would enable the flier to keep on a true course. Mr. Appleton said that under Mr. Buetow's plan the highways would be marked by the various divisions of the state road system. Outagamie is in the Green Bay division.

MEETS LAWRENCE STUDENT IN EUROPE

Cyrus Daniel Comes Across Edgar R. Koch at University of London

While on a leave of absence from the Lawrence Conservatory of Music for study abroad last semester, Cyrus Daniel made a contact in London with Edgar R. Koch, the Lawrence good-will student in Europe, who was attending the University of London School of Economics, and living at the Student Movement House.

Koch, who was chosen last spring on the basis of scholarship, health, and personality by a committee of nine—six students and three faculty members—who made their decision after an intensive financial campaign, has studied at the Geneva School of International Relations, and at universities in England and Germany. He plans to return to Lawrence the last of May. His degree will be granted from Lawrence College following another year of undergraduate work on the campus.

Koch is the second Lawrence College student representative to foreign universities within three years. Ellen D. Tuton, personnel director of the college, was sent by the students in 1927-28.

Cyrus Daniel, F. A. G. O., who was studying composition with York Bowen of the Tobias Matthay School and the Royal Academy of Music, also met Elizabeth Thompson, a second Lawrence student pursuing foreign study. Miss Thompson, Houghton, Mich., a pupil of Gladys Eves Brainerd, professor of piano, was granted a degree in piano from the Lawrence Conservatory of Music last June, and is now studying piano in London with Miss Miller, also of the Tobias Matthay School.

POLLACK ETCHINGS ON EXHIBIT AT COLLEGE

The second exhibit of etchings by Max Pollack is on display at the Lawrence college library art alcove this week. These etchings, in addition to the linoleum prints of Merrick and Klebe and the wax portraits of Ethel Francis Mundy, give the Lawrence art exhibits one of the strongest collections ever shown at one time outside of the art galleries of the larger cities.

As a recognition of the interest in art displayed by the college, Mr. Pollack has presented Lawrence with one of his famous etchings entitled "A Carpathian Village." The Pollack exhibit now on display includes a copy from the same plate as the one now on display at the art Institute of Chicago in the exhibit of the Chicago society of etchers. It is entitled "The Dancer," and is a study of the famous danseuse, Anna Duncan. In a recent issue of the New York Times, this same etching appeared in color as the cover of the book section.

English Student Writes Final Scene In "Macbeth"

William Foote, 17, a senior at the high school, recently completed the study of Shakespeare's tragedy, "Macbeth" under Miss Min Smith, high school English teacher. In the original play, Macbeth is last heard of when he is killed by his enemy Macduff. As an English project, Foote carried the play a step further by writing the following original scene between Macbeth and the three witches, who were Macbeth's evil guides during his life.

ACT V. SCENE IX

(Entrance to a cavern. In the middle die a bedding chamber. Thunder. Enter the three witches.)
First Witch. Rejoice, sisters of midnight.
For we have brought him not too soon!
Another mortal to his doom.
Second Witch. Not ere he had sent ten men
To a strange untimely end.
Third Witch. Hecathie, commend our pain.
For we have labored not in vain.
Murderous passion we have made
And Macbeth with his life hath paid.
First Witch. Lying truths ensnared Macbeth.
He in turn killed all the best.
Now our bloody task is done.
Now the battle hath been won.
All: Double, double toil and trouble.
Fire burn and cauldron bubble.
Enter ghost of Macbeth
Macbeth: O foul and wicked midnight hag!
Enslaving, leading, beckoning
You've forced me to an awful place
Because I once looked at your face.
Your prophecies were true in sooth
But you misled me by the truth.
King I was—to murder own
But Banquo's child now holds the throne.
All my scheming was in vain
Men can't change nature's train.
Witches All: Misled three, Macbeth?
thou dost jest.
And our intentions thou hast guessed?
Ho! Ho! We're here to trouble brew,
And plenty we'd make for you.

LINOLEUM PRINTS ARE ON EXHIBIT HERE THIS MONTH

Works of Klebe and Merrick Are Shown in College Art Alcove

Linoleum prints by Charles E. Klebe and James Kirk Merrick are featured in an exhibit which opens at the Lawrence college art alcove this month. The two young Philadelphia artists, recently graduated from the Pennsylvania Museum school of art, have won the approval of many critics for their graphic art, design and mastery of technique. The exhibit includes several linoleum prints of 1929—horses, studies of animals, and scenes from the progress of invention. The Klebe print, done by Klebe, is a unusual still of a horse's head. A other print which will delight art fans is entitled "Hecathie," showing a vanishing figure in a landscape. The print, made by Merrick, is a study of a horse's head.

Merrick is at home in almost any subject matter, although his exhibit shows a tendency toward suggestive scenes. Klebe, who is a student of Merrick's, is also a student of the Pennsylvania Museum school of art. He is a student of the Pennsylvania Museum school of art. He is a student of the Pennsylvania Museum school of art.

Philadelphia, Atlantic City, Baltimore, and New York. Appleton through Lawrence college, is the first city west of the Alleghenies to show the work of this promising young artist. Both Klebe and Merrick studied illustration under Thornton Oakley, whose illustrations have been displayed in the Lawrence college art alcove in past years. PURE—Because First, this creamery is under the supervision of the Health Department of Chicago, which demands clean, healthy cows; clean barns; in other words cleanliness where the milk is produced. Secondly—The milk must be properly cooled, free from sediment and disease producing bacteria. Thirdly—because the milk is perfectly pasteurized at our plant. This insures a milk that is absolutely pure and safe for the smallest infant to drink.

To those who are skeptical, we only ask you to compare our bacteria count, taken by the Health Officer of Appleton monthly, with any dairy delivering milk in Appleton.

PEOPLE TIRED OF OPERA? WE WONDER, SAYS MUSIC CRITIC

Maybe Reason Is That Opera Is No Good Just Now, He Suggests

BY W. J. HENDERSON
Music Critic of the New York Sun
New York (CPA)—The patient reader will forgive a poor music reviewer if he indulges today in a melancholy thought about his own vices. When Antonio Galli-Curci returned a week ago and promulgated the alarming news that opera was played out, his water of the star-utensil as well as failure went off into a splendid corner of the Metropolitan opera house and dropped a silent tear.

People were tired of opera—how sad! One could not fight tears and yet to be a music critic. But the reviewer is not a music critic. He is a man who has seen the performance of an entire opera house. When he has seen the performance of an entire opera house, he has seen the performance of an entire opera house. When he has seen the performance of an entire opera house, he has seen the performance of an entire opera house.

SHOWS CLEVELAND
It may be that she had her share of the world's attention over the last night's performance of a dance to the music of a song by opera singers in full night of audience. He has seen the performance of an entire opera house. When he has seen the performance of an entire opera house, he has seen the performance of an entire opera house.

Sell Urges Farmers To Cull Their Boarder Cows

Pointing out the recent decline in dairy prices, Gus Sell, county agent in a letter issued last week to county dairymen, again calls the attention of the farmers to the necessity of culling from their herds all "non-profit" animals.

Records from over 40,000 cows in the Wisconsin Herd Improvement Association show that an animal producing only 200 pounds of milk, under the present price of butterfat of 45 cents a pound produces at a loss of about $10 per year while an animal producing 500 pounds of butterfat at the present rate of payment earns only $16 per year, over and above cost, Mr. Sell said. The record that with fat at 59 cents a pound a 200-pound producer would earn $18 as compared with $90 at the present price. The cost of boarding this cow is $35 for roughage, $20 for grain and $44 for overhead expenses, a total of $100. This shows that with butterfat at 59 cents the 200-pound cow would earn $18 but with butterfat at 45 cents the cow loses $10.

By the same comparison a 300-pound cow earns $17 a year at 45 cents a pound and only $18 at 59 cents a pound. Cost of boarding this cow is $38 for roughage, $21 for grain and $50 for overhead expenses, a total of $110. Thus at the old price of butterfat a 300-pound cow would earn $18 a year while at the new and lower price it earns but $17.

Test the cull, cull closely and feed carefully to increase butterfat production and yet cut down overhead expenses, Mr. Sell advised the farmers as a solution of the present problem.

The butterfat surplus is brought on by over production and a falling off in the demand for butter. Farmers can aid themselves materially by buying more butter and cheese and by culling out their low producing cows. This would serve to cut down the surplus production and at the same time would bring greater profits because the producing animals would be eliminated and give the earning animals a chance to prove their worth.

SULPHUR IN WATER IS FATAL TO FISH IN BEVERLY HILLS

Residents Build Palatial Pools, but Their Goldfish Die

BY JESSIE HENDERSON
Copyright, 1930, By Cons. Press
Hollywood (CPA)—Goldfish refuse to live in Beverly Hills. Now, it is misunderstood. It is not that goldfish feel any lack of intellectual ground in the Beverly Hills section for a number of film stars own pools simply crammed with books. Nor do goldfish object, and we would, to an environment replete with poinsettias, power to the people and palatial pools. However, goldfish could object at having breakfast brought to him around noon by a film heroine in a family mansion, even though the breakfast is served shortly after the sun has set. After all, a goldfish is a creature of habit. The life of a film heroine is a series of what-ifs and goldfish are very fond of what-not.

Nevertheless, goldfish refuse to live in the surroundings over which the nation's vocabulary grows positive by incessant with repetition. A film star spends $50,000 for a comfortable home in a tangle of goldfish pools which has been in it only to find that the goldfish would rather die than live there. Hence, the dozens is the preoccupation of Beverly Hills goldfish at the moment.

And what is home without a goldfish? SEEK FOR CAUSE
When the mysterious epidemic recently struck the goldfish belt, various lovers of wild life tried various remedies. They housecleaned the pools. They set up detector signs for the guidance of sunrise motoring guests, for whom a pool often has an irresistible attraction. Still the goldfish died.

Experts were summoned. They studied the languid survivors, and reached a verdict of death by indigestion. Cause unknown. Why in digestion should attack the goldfish in Beverly Hills at one swoop continued to be a guessing contest. Desperate measures require desperate measures. An unfinished new pool emptied into a pool a bottle of which she had been saving for medicinal purposes. Like stars the eight remaining fish sank to the bottom while the resident goldfish heaven to witness that you can't tell what you're buying these days. Suddenly, like eight streaks of golden lightning, the eight fish zipped to the surface, where they swam around and round and round for an hour. But they also died eventually.

At last, however, an expert has isolated the trouble. It is water. A peculiarity of goldfish is that they drink this fluid as well as swim in it, to such an extent that that they may be termed water addicts. Pronounced delicious to those who have tasted it, the water of Beverly Hills contains just enough sulphur to react unfavorably on the constitution, and if chlorinated, as it is, counteract the sulphur and even then displaces a taste.

The water, said a fish and hand expert, Peters, who is the robber of the goldfish, is a very potent poison at the very least and he dared them into the water.

While he was talking, a man in a white coat entered the room. He was a doctor, and he was a doctor of the goldfish.

SAYS HE TURNED BANK ROBBER TO OBTAIN DIVORCE

Toronto (CP)—A man who said he turned bank robber to obtain funds to get a divorce was in jail today after being trapped as he tried to look his victims in a vault.

Arrested Peters, 21, walked into a branch of the Dominion bank yesterday and handed a note to the teller on which was written, "I want $2,000 and no more business." He then displayed a pistol.

The teller, who paid $1,000 and handed Peters a check for the robber's purpose, was a very potent poison at the very least and he dared them into the water.

bank, took in the situation and rushed to the street, closing the bank door after him.

A policeman responded to Wells' call for help and arrested Peters, who offered no resistance.

The robber, who lived a short distance from the bank, told police he planned the robbery to obtain money for a divorce. He said he had been married two years and was the father of a child. The automobile pistol he had was empty. He said he had stolen it from his brother-in-law.

MIAMI OPENS DRIVE TO CURB GAMBLERS

County and City Investigate Numerous Complaints Against Disorders

Miami, Fla. (CP)—City and county authorities were engaged today in a concerted investigation of complaints of gambling in the Miami area.

City Manager Frank H. Wharton, who succeeded Welton H. Snow last week, said "gambling houses will be closed."

Sheriff M. P. Lehmann dispatched a party of deputies to the Hialeah race track yesterday. The envelope system of wagering has been in effect at the racing plant.

There may be an announcement later, Chief Deputy D. C. Coleman said in reporting that no arrests had been made at the track as yet.

The Miami Herald has published a story saying that extensive gambling operations were found to be in progress in two rooms in the downtown district. The newspaper said more than 200 persons played dice, roulette, chemin de fer and various kinds of card games. Police reported the rooms were closed yesterday.

Night clubs will be permitted to operate as long as they confine their activities to "entertainment," City Manager Wharton said.

Federal authorities entrusted with prohibition enforcement have obtained an order from Judge Halsted Patterson directing the proprietors of the exclusive Wofford hotel at Miami Beach to show cause why the hotel should not be padlocked for violation of the dry laws.

"Always in Good Humor" says Bill "and my Folks, too"

YOUNG BILL FREEMAN, Jr., of 707 South Street, Key West, Florida, has started in early telling the world his secret of health. "I don't know that I would have been the cause of divorce," writes Bill, through his mother, "but certainly the first three months of my life my mother was a nervous wreck, and so was I. I never saw father because he didn't like my disposition—and every day it was a fight at our house—either castor oil or an enema, and I was just about ready to quit home."

William A. Freeman, Jr., who licks the spoon in preparation for licking the world.

"Finally, they started in giving me a half teaspoonful of Nujol night and morning. I am five months old now, and I take Nujol every other night, which keeps me so well regulated that I am always in good humor, and so are my folks."

How simple it is, after all. No drugs, no medicines, no irritating cathartics. Just simple and natural lubrication which our bodies need as much as any machine. Nujol is not absorbed by the body. It is non-toxic; it can form no habit; it cannot hurt the smallest baby. What it does is keep our bodies internally clean of the poisons we all have and which, unless they are swept away as regularly as clock work, give us headaches, make us feel sick, low in our minds, blue, down on the world.

Nujol is as tasteless and colorless as pure water. Start this very night and see how different you will feel after a few days. It costs but a few cents and it makes you feel like a million dollars. You can buy it at any drug store in a sealed package. With millions of people all over the world keeping well with Nujol there is no reason why you, too, should not be joyous, full of pep, with the happiness that comes of good health. THE SUPREME COURT'S DECISION

The state supreme court holds that the corrupt practices act is applicable to the office of governor and has overruled the lower court's decision sustaining a demurrer by Gov. Kohler's counsel to the ouster proceedings brought by his political opponents. The governor's lawyers argued that the qualifications for governor were proscribed by the constitution as well as the method for removing him from office, namely by impeachment. They contended that to extend the corrupt practices act to the governor was a violation of the constitution, since it made it possible to remove him by court proceedings.

We believe the ruling of the supreme court is sound and just. This newspaper is a supporter of Mr. Kohler. It does not believe he was elected dishonestly or corruptly. It believes that he is being persecuted by his political enemies and has been ever since he announced himself for the office. Whether $100,000 or $10,000 was spent in that election is of small consequence. It was a presidential election and large sums of money were being expended in this and other states by all political parties. We know of no accusation involving irregularities, bribery or other misconduct.

There are, however, more important questions in this case than that of Gov. Kohler's political or personal interests. It is of vital concern that the constitution shall be rightly interpreted and conscientiously upheld, and that the laws of the state, of whatever character, shall retain their efficacy and be carried out according to the intention of the legislature and the people. The reasoning that a candidate for governor whose election violates the laws of the state is not elected in fact appears to us to be unanswerable. The election has been vitiated at its source. In that circumstance the offender, not being legally elected, does not come within that provision of the constitution which provides impeachment for his removal. If the election in the first instance had been legal then there is no question but what impeachment is the only method by which the governor could be removed. It is right, therefore, that the case should go to trial and should not be thrown out of court on a demurrer.

We have no idea that the ouster proceedings will succeed but we have been of the opinion all along that they ought to be tried on their merits. The supreme court expresses the opinion that the governor cannot be held responsible for money spent in his behalf without his knowledge or consent. The charges regarding the excessive use of money do not go to Kohler himself, but rather to the political organization which supported him in the primary and in the election. There is nothing in the case touching the purity or security of elections. It is a play of reciprocal pure and simple.

The men who are back of this suit are affiliated with a political organization and politicians who have transgressed the spirit if not the letter of the corrupt practices act to a far greater degree than Gov. Kohler is accused of. It will be interesting to hear the testimony upon which they rely. In the meantime, it is well to know that the supreme court has consistently upheld the corrupt practices act and interpreted the constitution as it has.

FEWER LYNCHINGS

Last year there were ten lynchings in this country. In 1892, less than 40 years ago, there were 235 lynchings. Comparison of those two records and study of the years between with their slow but fairly steady decline in lynchings show that progress in this matter is real.

There are probably several reasons for this improvement. Education and agitation against lynching, stiffening of public opinion and therefore of public officials—jailers, sheriffs, prosecutors, judges—have had considerable effect.

Lynching should not exist in a civilized community where legal justice moves promptly and surely. To condemn lynching is not to condone other crimes. Humanity, decency and justice are worth striving for. Their achievement in one field foreshadows their achievement in others. Thoughtful Americans hope that other crimes of violence may be checked as lynching has been.

THE NEW CHIEF JUSTICE

The resignation of William Howard Taft as chief justice of the supreme court of the United States occasioned little surprise. He has been in poor health for some time and it is now admitted that he is a very sick man. Other resignations are certain to follow in the course of a few years. It is possible that during the administration of President Hoover, should he be reelected, the supreme court will be entirely reorganized. Mr. Taft is to be succeeded by Charles Evans Hughes, who is to resign his recent election to a seat in the world court.

Mr. Taft has given the best part of his life to public service of the highest order. He is a man of unimpeachable integrity and a citizen of great and fine qualities. He has more than earned a long needed rest. Let us hope it has not come too late and that he will recuperate and be restored to good health.

The change from Mr. Taft to Mr. Hughes on the supreme bench is for the better. Mr. Taft is a great jurist but he is ultra-conservative. He commands the utmost respect of the American people for character, honesty and ability, but he has never appealed to their imagination. Although he is today more generally admired and liked than when he was president, he has never been fully understood. Perhaps no great jurist is ever close to the hearts of the people.

The average person knows very little about members of the supreme court, and that seems to apply to Mr. Taft. It is true of Mr. Root and to a lesser degree of Mr. Hughes. It was also true of the late Benjamin Harrison, another president of eminent legal attainment. But Mr. Hughes is to be considered more progressive than Mr. Taft. He inclines to liberal policies and liberal construction of the constitution. He has always been a fearless opponent of privilege or entrenched interests that sought to exploit the people. He is in the full vigor of his mental powers and is undoubtedly the best fitted man for the chief justiceship available today. He takes a large view of all public questions and all issues brought to his consideration. He has received the highest honors the nation can bestow excepting the presidency and he has distinguished himself in all of them. His selection by Mr. Hoover for chief justice was logical and natural. His name will add to the prestige of that remarkable body and he will be a contribution to the liberal spirit that is slowly but surely gaining ground in its personnel.

"BE CALM WHEN YOU SEND FIRE ALARMS" FIRE CHIEF ASKS

Certainly, be thoughtful about these matters. Don't rush about with it if the house is burning down, seat yourself in a comfortable chair and consider the wisest course of action. Ask yourself several questions. Questions are always good when a fire is crackling about the place. Ask yourself whether you can put the fire out unassisted. You can't imagine if the people upstairs are being bothered by the smoke. Open a few windows in this case. Thumb through the telephone directory to see if you can find someone besides the fire department who would be more interested in attending your blaze. You won't go through your personal effects to find whether the insurance has lapsed or not. If you can't be sure, call your insurance man—he'll appreciate hearing from you at one thirty a. m. In case the house isn't insured, have him write you a policy over the phone. Any excuse will do—tell him something about the furnace working so beautifully that you woke up thinking the house was on fire. He'll see the humor in it. Go out to the kitchen and see if you can't find some food for the firemen to eat when they come. Fix some caviar sandwiches and coffee. Fire fighters appreciate these little considerate things more than you realize. Call Chief McGilgan to see whether he wants his man to go out. If it's a damp night, he may prefer to have you wait until morning. However, if he thinks the weather will permit, finish your arrangements.

THEN, call the fire department!

Today's Anniversary

ROGER WILLIAMS' ARRIVAL
On Feb. 5, 1631, Roger Williams, founder of the state of Rhode Island, arrived at Boston from England.

Williams refused to join the congregation at Boston because the people would not declare their repentance for having been in communion with the church of England. He therefore went to Salem as assistant preacher.

From Salem, Williams went to Plymouth, where, in addition to assisting his pastor, he studied Indian languages. Returning in 1633 to Salem, he again brought himself into disfavor by holding that the Massachusetts Bay government had no right to take the Indians' land without purchase and to impose on them faith and worship.

Banished from the colony, Williams escaped in midwinter to the shores of Narragansett Bay, accompanied by a few adherents, and here purchased lands of the Indian chiefs, founded the city of Providence in 1636, and established a government founded on complete toleration. He later founded the first Baptist church in America, but withdrew when he doubted the validity of baptism.

Mrs. Peter S. Hansen celebrated the Happy New Year at her home on W. College Ave. the night before.

Miss Leona, 16-year-old, entertained 16 friends at her home at 1138 N. Park at the night before.

Miss Ella Lutton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Lutton, 623 Belmont, and Walter Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Green, Shawano, were married at 2 o'clock that afternoon at the home of the bride's parents.

The marriage of Miss Mary Gotsay, daughter of Mrs. William Gotsay, 759 Vine, to Raymond Schindler, son of Mrs. Theresa Schindler, Packard, took place at 1 o'clock that morning in the parsonage of St. Joseph church.

The engagement was announced of Miss Irene Scheffer, Chicago, to George Wieser, 575 Drew St.

Mrs. William Tamm, Appleton, was to entertain the Birthday Club at her home the next day.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author
Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writer's names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

CALIFORNIA DOCTOR COMES DOWN WITH ACIDOSIS

As I was saying the other day the acidosis bug that has superseded the great American auto-intoxication obsession is cultivated chiefly in north California, and out there even a regular doctor sometimes comes down with it. For example Old Dr. Langstroth—I call him so affectionately, as one patriarch to another—has just made a convert. He has convinced me that when we begin the trek to California Old Dr. Brady must give up his coffee, toast, sugar, cream and butter, not to mention the greater part of his meat, later, sweets and virtually everything that makes life so joyous in the effete east. Having given my word that we'll start on safari after Christmas I am now devoting my self wholeheartedly to coffee and toast and trying to keep up my thoughts how long after Christmas it is likely to be. But, who knows, maybe this is a blessing in disguise. If I do come back in California, if I do find I can run a mile there as easily as I could here 20 years ago, I'll give full credit to Old Dr. Langstroth and his sound advice about diet, and none at all to the California climate.

I didn't consult Dr. Langstroth personally. No I confess I just appropriated his advice. I haven't even thanked him for it, but I will if I can find him when I get to San Francisco. I came upon a bit of writing he had published in one of the medical journals, and there, by jinks, he had hit my case, describing it better than I could do myself, as the confirmed testimonial readers say, and had Old Dr. Langstroth offered a pill or a shot or a pink light treatment or almost anything one could take without effort or inconvenience or self discipline. I had taken his treatment then and there, but he didn't offer any such easy remedy. That's the trouble with these regular doctors; having gained the prospect's confidence they do not make the rest of it so easy for him that it becomes harder to leave off than it is to keep on taking treatment. The bad healers, the near doctors, the cultists and the ordinaires, on the other hand, make the path of the sucker very easy and pleasant, once they've hooked him.

What Dr. Langstroth pictured as the awful consequence of NOT following his advice may appear to some of our readers as powerfully as it did to me, and as I feel it did me good I shall endeavor to represent the picture here. A BYSTANDER IN WASHINGTON

BY HERBERT PLUMMER
Washington—The junior senator from Pennsylvania—Joseph R. Grundy—is now "Old Joe" on Capitol Hill, and he will be referred to as "Old Joe" as long as he stays in the senate.
The soubriquet was applied even before he had been sworn in, but if there was any doubt as to whether it would stick, those minutes immediately prior to his taking the oath removed it.
Indeed, few of those whose names are familiar in Washington escape being nicknamed. And while they are seldom used when speaking directly to the person, nevertheless they are so familiar that no one is in doubt as to who is talked about. Some are familiar throughout the country. Others are rarely heard outside the capital.

"BERT" HOOVER
Reference to President Hoover as "The Chief," the name given him while he was secretary of commerce, is generally known. Only Mrs. Hoover calls him "Bert"—the only other by-name heard in Washington.

Vice President Curtis is "Charlie" to his close friends on the Hill. Rarely does one hear his other title "Big Chief."

Secretary Stimson is "Stimpy" of the state department, and the assistant secretary, Joseph P. Cotton, is "Uncle Joe."

Secretary Davis is known far and wide as "Jimmy." The handsome and cordial assistant secretary of the navy, Ernest L. Doherty, is still referred to as "Commander." Just as he was at home in New Orleans. The chief of staff of the army, General Summerall, is known to his close associates as "Sitting Bull"—the name of his telephone exchange in France during the war.

And of course the secretary of the treasury is "Andy" Mellon and the speaker of the house of representatives "Nick" Longworth.

"HI" AND "DAVE"
In the senate, nicknames are many and varied.

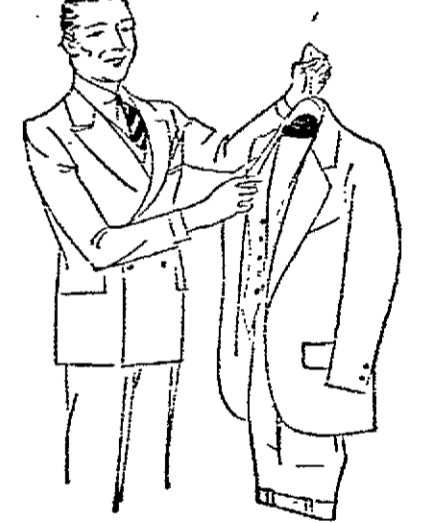

Portly Hiram Johnson is known to his colleagues as "Hi." Read of Pennsylvania is never anything but "Dave."

One would almost have difficulty if "Jim" Watson were referred to as James, as they would if "Tom" Meffin were ever called Thomas.

Cole Blaise brought his South Carolina soubriquet of "Cooley" to Washington and is so known, while "Doc" Copeland owes his to the fact that he is the only physician in the senate.

La Follette is called "Little Bob," and his prohibition activity has earned for Wesley Jones the name of "Five and Ten."

Borah is "Bill" most of the time, and he has been referred to as the "Lone Lion." Bratton of New Mexico is "Judge," and Jim Watson at times refers to him in this manner on the senate floor.

Saving on real style is saving in real fashion.

We wouldn't give a straw to save money on a dark blue sedan if our hearts were set on a bright red roadster.

And you wouldn't welcome the chance to save on a blue double breasted suit if your dreams were built on a single breasted brown.

The point is that the saving you effect at Schmidt's is based on the effects you want.

We offer you thrift without asking you to change your mind.

AUSTRALIAN BONDS SOFT; PRICES SHOW BIG DEPRECIATION

Movement Is in Contrast to Tendency of Other Foreign Issues

BY CHARLES F. SPEARE
Wall Street, New York (CPA)—
Since 1921 the commonwealth of Australia, two of her states, Queensland and New South Wales, and the city of Brisbane have issued and sold in the American market approximately $250,000,000 bonds. The coupon rates on these various obligations range from 7 per cent on the first offerings to 1 1/2 per cent on the $50,000,000 issue of 1928.

Recently all of these bonds have been soft in a market for foreign dollar credits that has been hardening and which today was at the highest average of the year and about a point above that of 1929. Their declines range from 8 points below
the public subscription price to 11 points, with a total depreciation on the combined offerings of roughly $20,000,000.

This situation has been brought about by political and economic conditions in Australia which have affected not only the credit of the commonwealth but those of her states and municipalities and have given serious concern to those responsible for their finances especially where refunding operations are in prospect.

Loans offered in the London market have had a poor reception in the last two years and in view of the extravagance of the government leaders in Australia, there has been a disposition among English bankers to draw away from the traditional attitude of favoritism toward loans to one of the leading English colonies.

The first of the dollar loans floated in the United States was that of the state of Queensland, which in 1921 placed $12,000,000 of 7 per cent bonds here at 99. Later they sold at 116. At present they are quoted at 106. In 1922 Queensland offered $2,000,000 of 6 per cent bonds in New York through an American syndicate at 96 1/2. Subsequently this issue sold at 103. It is now at 100 and with the 7 1/2 is the only two of the nine Australian issues outstanding quoted above their initial price.

In 1923 the commonwealth of Australia brought out a loan of about $73,000,000 bonds here at 96 1/2. These later touched 100 but have since this week been as low as 89. Two years later a second issue of $40, 000,000 of 5 per cent bonds was offered at 98. At that time there was a feeling that Australian credit nearly approximated Canadian dominion credit. This was reflected in a subscription price about equal to that for Canadian 5 per cent bonds. Monday this issue dropped to 87 1/2, or over 10 points below its initial figure.

During 1927 New South Wales
sold to American investors over $49, 000,000 of 5 per cent bonds, both issues being priced at 96 1/4. The one lot of bonds came out before the other had been digested. Subsequent markets for both issues were poor. Today they are selling 11 points lower than first cost. About the same time the city of Brisbane offered two 5 per cent issues aggregating about $18,000,000 here. The one is now off 10 points and the other 11 1/2 points. The climax of the Australian borrowing came in May, 1928, when foreign governments
along with American corporations
felt that they should be able to sell an unlimited amount of 4 1/2 per cent bonds although federal reserve discount rates had then begun to advance. So Australia offered $5, 000,000 of her obligations at this minimum figure and at a price of 92 1/2. It was a long time before the issue was digested. Today it is quoted around 80.

Specialists in foreign bonds say that most of the selling in Australian government and state issues has been coming from Europe with heavy sales recently for London account. The very fact that there has been such a depreciation in Australian government and state issues
has led to a more conservative political attitude and a rejection of earlier radical political policies. That these have been expensive to Australia is proven by the severe terms exactred recently when temporary financing was negotiated for her account in the London market.

Woman Without a Country

Irene Bordoni doesn't know whether she is American or French. Right now she is a woman without a country. The noted actress, pictured above, is seeking a federal ruling on her citizenship status since the recent annulment of her marriage to E. Ray Goetz, theatrical producer. A Frenchwoman by birth, 108 years, as Goetz' wife, she has been a bona fide American citizen.

Rockefeller Gift Tends To Link America, France

Paris—Another strong link of amity binding France and America is now being forged by negotiations between the Rockefeller Foundation and the French government, the city of Paris and the University of Paris
for the construction of a new Paris Medical school as a result of the gift of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., of $6,000,000 for this purpose.

The Rockefeller proposal to advance the munificent sum stipulates that the French authorities provide a similar sum in land for the new medical center, or other consideration in the same amount.

Owing to the complications for planning new buildings, laboratories
and the necessary property, discussions will probably continue for a considerable time. When the program is completed it will have to be referred back to the board of trustees of the Rockefeller Foundation in New York for final approval.

FRANCE HIGHLY GRATEFUL
There is no question, however, of the gratitude and enthusiasm with which the Rockefeller gift has been received in French scientific circles.
The press has spoken in the most glowing terms of the donor's humanitarian interest, and of the American spirit in the advance of medical science.

The gift will make possible for France the most complete institute in Europe for the study and practice of the biological sciences. The Faculty of Sciences and the Medical school of the University of Paris
have long suffered for lack of space.
The present faculty building, in the rue de l'Ecole de Medecine was constructed for only 1000 students, while today there are 3,000.

NEW LIVING COSTS CAN'T BE COMPARED WITH THOSE OF 1913

Figures Are Now Made Comparative With Those of Last Four Years

BY J. C. ROYLE
Copyright 1930, by Cent. Press
Washington—Developments in the business situation in the last three years have wiped out 1913 and 1914 as comparative dates so far as American living costs and consumption prices are concerned. American have realized that prices and costs
and wages are no longer comparative. They are being reckoned on a basis of the last four years instead of the last 17.

One of the outstanding factors which is sustaining business confidence is the fact that costs and prices are so stabilized.
It no longer means a thing to Americans that it takes $1.60 now
to buy as much as $1 bought in 1913,
as the report of the special commission of the Massachusetts legislature
on necessities show. Old standards have given way to new desires. In 1913 the automobile was a luxury.
Now it is regarded by the majority
as a necessity. People do not desire to wear the same kind of clothes, live in the same kind of houses or eat the same kind of food as they did in 1913.

NEW WANTS ARRIVE
New wants and new standards have arisen and it is realized that conditions can never go back to what they were 17 years ago. As a result of those standards, the report of the commission shows that food
and clothing prices have shown no or increases. In the last two years whereas shelter costs have dropped to an equal extent, as have fuel and light prices and sundries.

The fact that the cost of living index has shown such minor fluctuation is of the utmost gratification to those who buy and sell. They are asking government help in still further stabilizing conditions so they can adjust production to consumption and maintain price equilibrium.

So far as the American family is concerned, government economists assert that living costs are now to be dependent on living requirements and modern living standards. Businessmen have seen the wisdom of maintaining this improvement in living requirements and have found unlimited marketing openings in consequence. They have ceased to regard labor as something to be purchased cheaply as possible, but hold workers as prospective customers of utmost value. It has been from enlightened self-interest that the employers of recent years have seen the advisability of sharing profits
with their workers and thus providing additional customers.

The scale of living of the American family has never gone back. It has always advanced and there is every indication that it will continue so it is unlikely, therefore, that there will be any extraordinary drops in living or labor costs.

The Ecole de Chirurgie, which the Medical school used to be called, was begun in 1759. In 1774 Louis XVI laid the cornerstone of the amphitheater and the building was completed in 1876.

The buildings are rich with medical history and students from all over the world delight in visiting it.

MEDICAL DIRECTOR OF NATIONAL SAFETY SCHOOL SPEAKS HERE

Advises Workmen to Have Wounds and Other Injuries Properly Treated

It is better to be inspected and suspected than to be discovered and infected, Dr. C. O. Sappington, a Chicago, medical director of the National Safety council, told a group of members of the Appleton Safety school at the general meeting in the Crystal room of Conway 1 last Wednesday evening. The topic of Dr. Sap-pington's illustrated lecture was Infected Wounds.

"It pays to give a wound the attention before it becomes a trouble to follow," Dr. Sappington said. He illustrated each of his points with slides, shown by Herb Hedrick, director of the Appleton Safety school, which is cooperation with the local industrial plants in sponsoring the annual safety conference.

"There is no such thing as a man being so hard that he is immune to infection, and men who think otherwise are to be pitied," he said. "Hundreds of such foolish men lose fingers, hands, arms, legs,
and other parts of their bodies each year because they do not take the necessary to have a little extra care properly dressed."

Nursery At Church Is New Plan

THE project of a children's nursery for Sunday mornings will be sponsored by the Young Women's Missionary society of Trinity Lutheran church, according to a decision made by the members Tuesday night. The purpose of the nursery is to enable mothers to attend the Sunday morning services at the church. Children up to six years of age will be taken care of in the cradle roll room in the sub auditorium, which is equipped with sand tables and other play apparatus to occupy the minds of the children in the absence of their mothers. A member of the mission society will be in charge of the room and will be assisted by a helper which she will choose. Mrs. Harry Cameron will be in charge of the nursery for the first two weeks. It is expected that the project will get under way within the next few weeks. The nursery will be in operation every Sunday from 10:30 until 12 o'clock.

Mrs. D. E. Boserman presented the topic at the devotional meeting of the society. Her subject was Christianity, the Faith Unique, and she compared the ancient religions with Christianity. She gave a brief history of three religions, such as Buddhism, Mohammedism, and the religion of Confucius, and brought out the difference between these and Christianity.

Mrs. Harry Cameron presented a topic, The Window of Light. Fourteen members were present. Mrs. Ed Kuehler will be the leader at the next meeting.

CHANGE POLICY OF RECITALS AT CONSERVATORY

A reorganization of policy in regard to student recitals marks the opening of the new semester at the Lawrence Conservatory of Music. Attendance at 15 of a possible 40 recitals, planned for the season, has been made compulsory for those students registered for courses in musical training.

The recitals, which will be open to the public, will begin at 7:30 o'clock in Peabody Hall. They will be of less than an hour's duration and, contrary to the precedent for evening recitals, will be informal presentations. The senior, graduate, and faculty artist recitals will be later in the evening and formal as usual.

The new plan has a double action value, according to Dr. Carl J. Waterman, professor of singing and dean of the Conservatory. Compulsory attendance at recitals is valuable to the student taking musical training because of the subtle growth of intelligently critical appreciation which is the result of continued exposure to good music, and it is of value to the performers in developing poise, control, and application of correct methods of performance in concert presentation.

The first of these recitals will be presented in Peabody hall Thursday evening, Feb. 6, with the presentation of eight students from the Brainard, Mueller, Frampton and Farrell studios.

SUBMIT REPORT TO MOOSE LODGE ON CHARITY BALL

A report on the charity ball which will be given by Loyal Order of Moose Feb. 15 was given at the meeting of the lodge Tuesday night at Moose temple. The committee includes Phil Kreutzer, Lawrence McGilgan, Peter Larson, Tony Nathrop, Fred Zuelke, Ernest Mueller, Gordon Kistler, Evert Johnson, Edward Ward, Arvon Ulrich is general chairman. This ball is being sponsored by the lodge to help finance erection of a boys' village at Mooseheart. Ill. Lodges all over the United States are cooperating in this project and are giving balls and dances for the benefit of the village. The erection of this village is expected to relieve the crowded condition of the quarters at Mooseheart.

The card committee for February was appointed at this time. Those who will serve on the committee are Arthur Collins, chairman; Carl Mayhain, John Carter, and Alvin Veltrock. The first party will be held Feb. 14 at Moose temple.

MOCK TRIAL TO FEATURE NEXT K. C. MEETING

A mock trial will be the feature of the entertainment at the meeting of Knights of Columbus at 7:30 Thursday night at St. Joseph's hall. A short business meeting will be held before the program. The trial is scheduled to start at 8 o'clock. This is a branch of promise suit, and "John Necker" is the defendant. Wives and friends of members are invited.

Other programs scheduled for February include a "Country School," which will be the feature of the meeting Feb. 20 at Catholic home, and a costume party and dance Feb. 28 at Columbia hall. This will be the last social function before Lent. A. J. Hall is chairman of the event. Those attending are to wear costumes and mask.

Siolen Car

A Ford coupe, 1929 model, was stolen at Menasha about 12:30 Wednesday morning, according to a report received by local police. The machine was green in color and had the 1930 license, C-23903.

Hardware Dealers

Several Appleton hardware dealers Tuesday afternoon at Milwaukee attended the annual convention of the Wisconsin Hardware Dealers' association at the auditorium.

Flapper Fanny Says:

WOMEN'S UNION OF CHURCH TO SERVE SUPPER

A supper will be given Feb. 13 at First Baptist church by the Women's Union, according to plans made at the meeting Tuesday afternoon at the church. Mrs. L. M. Schindler will be chairman of the committee in charge, and the meal will be served from 5 to 7 o'clock.

Mrs. Carl Elert led the devotional and Miss Ruth Harris gave a reading, "Have You a Manger?" Stereoscopic views, "Around the World in Forty Minutes," were shown. These demonstrated the work being done in mission fields of the world by the Baptist denomination. These include views of Japan, China, Burma, Assam, India, Porto Rico and countries of Europe. These slides climaxed the reading of Transit, the survey of missionary work during the past few years, which was finished at the end of January. Mrs. D. N. Carlson read the Scripture lesson for the day. After the devotional meeting, a social hour took place and refreshments were served. The committee included Mrs. L. D. Powers and Mrs. John Bunting. Thirty-one members were present.

The White Cross will meet Feb. 13 at the church.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

Junior Olive branch Walther league of Mount Olive Lutheran church school will hold its annual sleighride party within the next week. A committee has been appointed to make arrangements. It is composed of Mildred Kruckeberg, chairman, Anna Miller and Lyle Smith.

Zion Lutheran Brotherhood of Zion Lutheran church met Tuesday night in the parish school. Regular business was transacted and refreshments were served. The committee was composed of Walter Boettcher, chairman, Robert Timm, Emil Kahler, and Chester Morke. The bowling teams are being organized and the alleys are completed, according to an announcement made at the meeting.

Mrs. Roy Marston, 538 E. College, ave., entertained Circle No. 3 of the Congregational church Tuesday afternoon at her home. A business meeting took place and a social hour followed. Sixteen members were present. The next meeting will be the first Tuesday in March.

St. Paul Ladies' Aid society of St. Paul Lutheran church will meet at 8 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the parish hall. The serving committee for the social hour will include Mrs. William Biedenbecker, Mrs. Fred Bohl, Mrs. Emil Reiling, Mrs. E. M. Brandt, Mrs. Forbeck, Mrs. Emil Dahlman, Mrs. G. A. Detman, and Mrs. Edward Ehke.

Sunday school teachers of Mount Olive Lutheran church met in the church parlors Tuesday evening. School problems and plans for the next two weeks were discussed.

The Ladies Aid society of First English Lutheran church will meet at 8:15 Thursday afternoon at the church. Regular business will be discussed.

The Women's Union of St. John church will meet at 2:30 Thursday afternoon in the church parlors. A business session will take place and a social hour will follow. The lunch will be served by Mrs. C. Rock, Mrs. F. Scheff, and Mrs. G. Sier.

CARD PARTIES

Twenty-nine tables were in play at the card party given by the Christian Mothers' society of St. Mary church Tuesday night at Columbia hall. Prizes at schafkopf were won by Mrs. Ted Lang, James Diny, and Tom Hayes, and at bridge by Mrs. Stanley Steinh, Mrs. Thomas Ryan, and Mrs. Willard Perenboom. Mrs. August Arndt was chairman of the committee in charge which included Mrs. J. Lacyendecker, Jr., Mrs. Frank Barta, Mrs. Dora Brown, Mrs. E. J. Fernal, Mrs. J. Bushey, Mrs. Peter Jones, Mrs. John Lehman and Mrs. J. Neuland.

The third of a series of card parties of the Ladies' Aid society of St. Joseph church will be held at 2:30 Thursday afternoon at the parish hall. Schafkopf, bridge, and plunkard will be played. Mrs. John Schmidt and Mrs. Anton Zickler will be in charge.

Mrs. Stuart Will Speak To A.A.U.W.

MRS. W. Z. Stuart, Neenah, will be the speaker at the meeting of the American Association of University Women at 2:30 Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Elmer H. Jennings, 1211 E. North St. The meeting will be held with Mrs. J. K. Jones instead of Mrs. Henry M. Wrasen, as previously announced.

Mrs. Stuart will speak on some phase of international relations. She has been president of the Neenah unit of the American Legion Auxiliary and state chairman of the Federation of Women's Clubs. She attended the tenth anniversary of the founding of the American Legion at Paris a few years ago, and was present at the Fdace conference at Brookfield the following year. Mrs. Stuart is sponsor of a project by which Rumanian students are being sent to school in the United States for the furthering of world peace and understanding. She has just returned from Washington where she acted as delegate to the National Defense Conference which is made up of representatives from various patriotic organizations in the country. The conferences are held yearly.

A business session will precede the program. After the talk, a social hour will be held and refreshments will be served. Assistant hostesses include Mrs. John Goodrich, Miss Elsie Mueller, Miss Ruth Becker, Miss Florence Bounds, and Miss Freda Dinsler.

PARTIES

Mrs. August Radtke was surprised Tuesday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Roney Nagreen, in honor of her seventy-eighth birthday anniversary. Cards were played and prizes were won by Mrs. William Braeger, Mrs. A. Burnt, Mrs. Charles Recker, and Mrs. Max Radtke. Dinner was served at 5:30. The guests included Mrs. Arthur Ecker, Mrs. Paul Selin, Mrs. Charles Recker, and children, and Mrs. August Radtke, Mrs. William Braeger, Mrs. A. Burnt, Mrs. Herman Schumma, Mrs. A. Burnt, Mrs. Max Radtke, Neenah.

A masquerade was given by Fraternity of Neenah Association Tuesday night at Odd Fellow hall. About 200 people were present. Meyer's orchestra provided music for dancing. The lodge will give a public card party March 4.

Mrs. Henry Jahnke, 627 E. Randall-st., entertained at a party Monday night at her home in honor of her birthday anniversary. Cards were played and prizes were won by Mrs. Harvey Jahnke, Mrs. Charles Hammer, Mrs. H. Stangenberg. Dice prizes were awarded to Mrs. D. Kowalek, F. Polzin, and Mrs. Meyer.

Twelve nurses of St. Elizabeth hospital entertained at dinner and bridge Tuesday evening in honor of Miss Alma Woeckner, who has resigned at St. Elizabeth hospital to take a position at the Rice Lake hospital. The party was held in the Blue room of Conway.

Miss Bebe Bachall was guest of honor at a masquerade party Sunday night at the home of Miss Bertha Greenberg, 608 N. Lawest. Eight couples were present. Miss Bachall, who will be married in May, has been entertained at several parties during the past two weeks. Miss Diana Resman entertained at three tables of bridge in her honor, and the Misses Molly and Dorothy Gold- en, Kaukauna, gave a bridge party at their home last week. A theater party was held recently at which ten couples were present. Miss Bachall received guest prizes at all of the parties.

LAST YEAR WAS RECORD ONE FOR BRITISH WOMEN

London—(P)—The year 1929 was a record one for British women. In May last for the first time in the history of the country women of 21 years old and over voted on the same terms as men in a general election and this landmark in British history was appropriately celebrated by the nomination of no fewer than 68 women candidates for election to the house of commons.

Fourteen were elected and among them was Miss Margaret Bondfield, who by her appointment as minister of labor, became Britain's first woman cabinet member.

The House of Commons' record for women's suffrage is being broken by the nomination of no fewer than 68 women candidates for election to the house of commons.

The Hon. Mrs. Victor Bruce broke the 24-hour record for cars up to five laps capacity by keeping up an average speed of over 50 miles an hour for the full time at the Montlhery track near Paris; and the famous sisters, Violet and Evelyn Cordery, put up a record endurance test by driving at Brooklands for 20.0 miles in 20.00 minutes.

Interesting Menus

BY SISTER MARY

NEA Service Writer

Many busy women find Sunday evening a most convenient time to entertain a few friends informally. The housekeeper without a maid or even a housekeeper can manage a Sunday supper party with the more formal and elaborate dinner is out of the question.

One hot dish, some form of bread, relishes, desert and something to drink is usually enough to serve. Bouillon or consommé may be the hot dish and a hearty salad may replace the relishes, but the menu should be kept simple.

If more persons are to be served than can be comfortably seated at the dining table, small tables can be placed in the living room and the food served buffet fashion from the dining room. The host serves the hot dish and the other dishes are arranged for each guest to help him- self. The small tables can be completely "set up" or merely covered with lunch cloths. In this event the guests will bring their napkins and silver with them, cafeteria style, from the dining table. The dessert is brought in when wanted and served individually.

USE CHAFING DISH

A hot dish made or at least kept in a chafing dish is always suitable and usually popular with both men and women.

Hot buttered rolls, split and toasted, pop-overs or sandwiches made with unusual varieties of breads, are all good.

This is one festivity when the hostess may serve as elaborate a dessert as she pleases. A heavy meal need not precede dessert, it's early in the evening and it's a grown-up party, so children need not be considered.

The following menu will suggest others to you:

Casserole of Rice and Mushrooms

Split and Toasted Rolls

Jellied Pineapple and White Gravy

Salad

Frozen Layer Cake

Salted Nuts Coffee

Both the salad and dessert are made early in the day and kept on ice until wanted.

The casserole of rice and mushrooms is made with canned mushrooms and canned tomato soup. It is made and ready to serve before the guests arrive and can be kept hot almost indefinitely.

FROZEN LAYER CAKE

One pint whipping cream, 1 tablespoon granulated gelatine, 3 tablespoons cold water, 1 cup powdered sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 4 tablespoons strawberry or raspberry jam, 2 teaspoons lemon juice, 1 square bitter chocolate, 4 tablespoons sugar, 3 tablespoons boiling water, sponge cake.

If a spring form mold is available, bake plain sponge cake in it. When cool cut in four layers and put one layer back in mold. If not, line a mold with a layer of sponge cake and cream, filling until all is used, making the last layer of cake. Cover with waxed paper and cover and pack in four parts ice to two parts water. Chill for five or six hours. Pour off brine and add more ice and salt about two hours before serving.

To make the cream filling, soften gelatine in cold water for five minutes. Dissolve over hot water. Beat cream until stiff, gradually adding powdered sugar. Strain gelatine into whipped cream and mix lightly. Divide cream into three parts. Play one with vanilla, another with jam rubbed through a sieve and mixed with lemon juice, and the third with chocolate melted over hot water and combined with sugar and hot water. Cover first layer of cake with chocolate cream, second with vanilla and third with jam.

When ready to serve, unmold on a chilled flat stand, five or six hours. Cover with one cup of whipping cream whipped until firm and lightly sweetened with four tablespoons powdered sugar. A few drops of vanilla or almond flavoring can be added.

Swiftest, Easiest Way to End Bilious Spell

When you neglect those first symptoms of constipation—bad breath, coated tongue, listlessness, the whole system soon suffers. Appetite lags. Digestion slows up. You become headachy, dizzy, bilious. It's easy to correct sluggish bowel action! Take a candy Cascaert tonight. See how quickly—and pleasantly—the bowels are activated. All the souring waste is gently propelled from the system. Regular and complete bowel action is restored.

Cascaerts are made from pure casca, a substance which doctors agree actually strengthens bowel muscles. All drug stores have Cascaerts, 10c. adv.

MILLER SINGS AT MEETING OF STUDENT BODY

A musical program by Earl Miller, instructor in voice at Lawrence conservatory of music, was presented at Lawrence Memorial chapel this morning. Miss Barbara Husemann, 1109 E. North-st., Appleton, played the piano accompaniment.

The selections given by Mr. Miller were "Patric" by Martini, "The Pilot," by Prothro, and "Hills" by La Forge. As an encore number, Miller sang "The Poor Man's Garden," by Russell.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE

© 1929 by NEA SERVICE, INC.

THEY turned into the wide and winding lane that led back to the long, low brown lodge just as the round red sun hung between two of the chimneys on the house. There was a waving of hands and merry calls from the long veranda that ran along one side of the place. Then a figure in fluttering draperies of blue and mauve and purple that made a gay swirl around a slim silhouette, came running to meet them.

"Oh, how sweet of you to drive Miss Merryman out!" Barbara said, but Sue saw the glint in her eyes. "Nancy said you were coming together. Everybody else is here, and Miles Roberts is sitting in a corner scowling because he had to drive alone. Here he comes now."

Miles came forward, handsome and gay and eager, and Sue noted again the similarity in type of Miles and Jack. Harry didn't seem to be around.

A maid in a neat black dress, white apron and cap, took possession of Sue and started to spirit her away, up the winding staircase, to her room. At the top of the stairs she met Harry, pulling on his coat as he came.

"Hello, Sue. Wouldn't you know the genial host would be half dressed when the guests of honor arrived? You look like the queen of Sheba would have looked if she could have found the clothes. That's a stunning outfit."

He was so interested and friendly that Sue forgot his queer actions, forgot the night he had been with Barbara, and smiled gaily.

"If you like it, then it passes the board of censors," she said, playing the game that the ensemble demanded. "I got it just to make you remember that I'm still around."

"Sue!" There was the old seriousness in his voice. "I don't need any mementoes to remind me of it. I . . . I'll see you later. The gang's calling," and he turned about and hurried downstairs.

But Sue was smiling as she entered her room. Then Harry was still of the same mind. No matter what he had been doing he had remembered. A little chill caught her. She would have to give him her decision in the next two days.

She admired the private bathroom, done in apple green crystal and enamel, that matched the chintz hangings of pink blossoms and green leaves which adorned the long, low bedrooms with its curly maple set. It would be lovely to stay here . . . She ran across the room to get a view . . . and saw Jack and Barbara staring for a split second around the grounds.

NEXT Sue and Sarah Slade work together.

London—George Bernard Shaw is disgusted over floggings in prisons. He thinks every judge who imposes such sentences ought to have two or three doses himself. A controversy has arisen over the suicide of a prisoner in jail. Lord Oarling, formerly on the bench, has joined in the arguments with the statement that no one is flogged unless he has been guilty of personal violence.

Diagonal Light-weight Wool

BY ANNABELLE WORTHINGTON

Illustrated Dressmaking Lesson Furnished with Every Pattern

Coppergreen diagonal light-weight woolen makes this jaunty utility all-day dress so entirely suitable for immediate wear. The hip, waist, neck, and sleeve bands are of plain fall silk crepe in harmonizing shade. Yellow tulle crepe gives lingerie touch at neckline.

Style No. 3238 is designed in sizes 16, 18 years, 38, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

It's very French, and a dress that you'll only find in exclusive shops, so take this opportunity to copy it for a very small outlay.

It is equally suited to faille silk crepe and is stunning in dahlia purple shade with just a touch of eggshell crepe at neckline.

In black crepe satin, it's an excellent choice for smart matron. Cut the bands from the dull surface of the crepe for contrasting effect. The neckband may be cut from the dull side or of white crepe silk.

Emerald green slip crepe is youthful with self fabric trim.

Pattern price 15 cents. Be sure to fill in size of pattern. Address Pattern Department. Our Fashion Magazine is 15 cents. But you may order a pattern and a Fashion Magazine together for 25 cents.

SUE POLLARD IS YOUNGEST OF FIRST LADIES

BY SUE McNAMARA

Richmond—(P)—She was bred in old Virginia, was Sue Pollard, but like the "Blue" of old Kentucky, "where the meadow grass is blue, there's the sunshine of the country in her face and manner, too?"

Miss Pollard is official hostess at the historic mansion in Richmond where her father, Dr. John Garland Pollard, now presides as governor. And never have affairs of the big house built in 1811 by James Monroe, been administered by a fairer young mistress.

In a blue evening gown, with her dark hair, fair complexion and winsome ways, Sue Pollard is what college boys would term "a riot."

There's always a stage line waiting to dance with Sue, despite the fact—or perhaps because of it—that she likes to sew and prefers Shakespeare and Barrie to the more modern authors.

She has a somewhat shy smile and blue eyes opened wide—eyes just matching the blue dress round which she holds her evening cape. She's a maid of few words. Yet you go away convinced that Sue Pollard is not only the youngest, but the most charming first lady Virginia ever had.

Being head of a household and receiving guests is no novelty to her. Mrs. Pollard has been an invalid for years and the daughter has "run" the family home in Williamsburg, Va., where her father has been dean of law in William and Mary college.

LODGE NEWS

A report of the committee in charge of the social for Feb. 12 will be given at the meeting of Fraternal Order of Eagles at 8 o'clock Wednesday night at Eagle hall. The committee met with the ladies Monday night and completed their plans for the social, which will be in the nature of the formal opening of the remodeled club rooms.

CLUB MEETINGS

Chicago Cubs Ready To Start Season's Training

GRUINS HAVE ALL SIGNED CONTRACTS; MANY GET RAISES

Wilson, Root, Bush, Malone Among Players Who Will Get Increases

CHICAGO—(AP)—William Wrigley's temperamental Cubs, victims of a few undesired records in their recent world series skirmish with the Athletics, have established somewhat of a different record in signing their 1930 contracts.

Instead of giving owner Wrigley, President William Veeck and Manager Joe McCarthy several financial and managerial headaches by becoming high-class holdouts, as is the custom of players on most of the big league clubs, every Cub has signed his contract without delay.

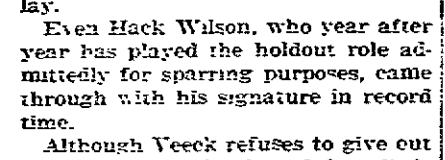

Even Hack Wilson, who year after year has played the holdout role amid much for sparring purposes, came through with his signature in record time.

Although Veeck refuses to give out salaries for public knowledge, it is known that the big reason for the lack of holdouts among the Cubs is due to substantial increases in pay for the more important members of the National league championship cast. Wilson is believed to have received a contract calling for $25,000, a good increase over 1929, while Charlie Root, Guy Bush and Pat Malone, axes of the pitching staff, also will draw fatter envelopes.

Wrigley, who regularly turns down directors' meetings in his various business enterprises to watch his team play, has his heart set not only for another National league flag but for another chance to win the world's championship, preferably at the expense of the selfsame Athletics. His spirit is shown in the players, too, and all confess they do not want to lose any time getting ready for that chance by holdout actions.

"Here I expected to have a lot of trouble," Lewis said. "I thought that inasmuch as the fellows were the champs of the National league, they would all take a long time signing, forcing me to do some worrying about our spring trip to Catalina Island, Calif. But most of them are signing in two weeks ahead of time, and itching to go. It just shows, one doesn't know what baseball players are going to do."

Presented herewith are candidates for the honor of "best in the Big Four" conference, said Big Four being composed of Lawrence, Carroll, Ripon and Beloit colleges.

Some unusually good talent has been brought out this season, and leading in scoring honors for the entire conference is Louis Bottino of Beloit who was captain last year. He plays guard, and has been outstanding at Beloit since his first game there. Recently he took to football and starred there too although he never played the game until he came to college. He finished his collegiate participation in athletics last Friday in the Beloit-Carroll game, but will remain at Beloit to coach freshman basketball.

Long Looping Shot Gives Irish Victory With Two Minutes to Go

MILWAUKEE—(AP)—Notre Dame's offense found its equal last night in Marquette's defense and it was not until two minutes before the end of the basketball game that the South Bend team would achieve a 20 to 13 victory.

Mutual under-rating made the first period slow, but from then on things picked up and the second half was a score tied four times. Notre Dame's winning score came from DeCook, who looped in a long field goal from far back and to the side of the floor, with two minutes to play.

MICHIGAN TECH WINS FROM STEVENS POINT

Houghton, Mich. (AP)—Michigan Tech led a Roman holiday last night with the Central State Teachers of Stevens Point as the unsuspecting victims. When the basketball shooting stopped, Tech had won by 41 to 25.

Tech led all the way through, maintaining a fast pace which tired the teachers. By the time the first half had passed Tech had been trailing only by a few points up to that time.

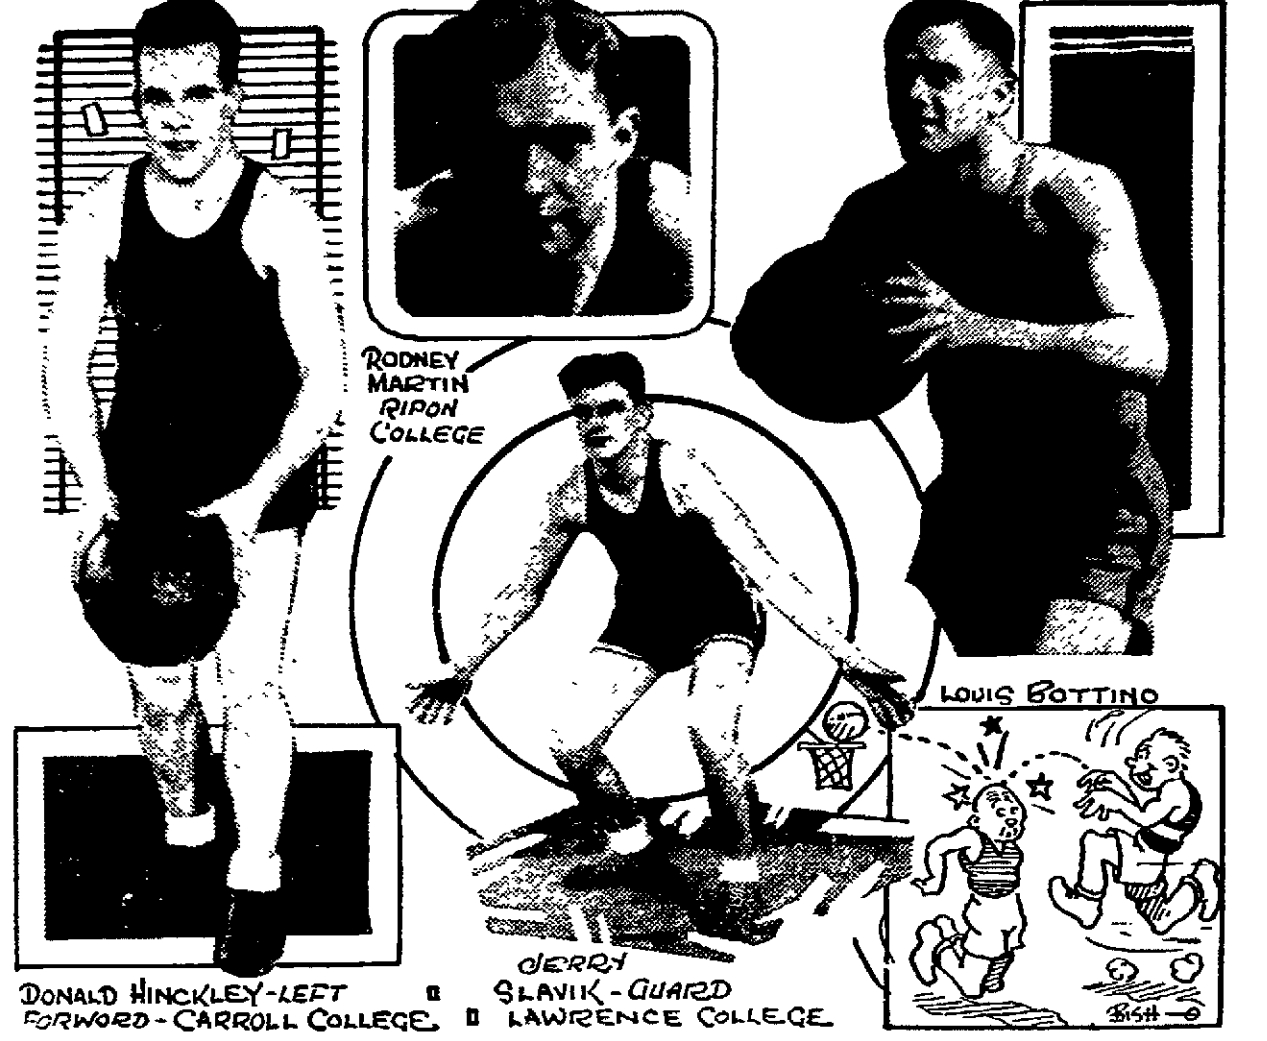

With the opening of the last half, Tech went into action and scored six points in three minutes. From then on the Carnegie was a general Stevens Point team, losing its total but not to a sum comparable with Tech's.

It was the second reverse for the Wisconsin team on its upper Michigan tour. Monday night the Marquette resisters took them into camp.

NORTHWESTERN STAR IN EASTERN MEET

NATIONAL LEAGUERS SETTLE TROUBLE ON BROOKLYN CLUB

Robinson Quits as President but Is Re-engaged as Manager

BY HERBERT W. BARKER Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK—(AP)—The dove of peace finally hovers over the strife-torn Brooklyn club of the National league. The long battle between Wilbert Robinson, president-manager-director of the club, and St. W. McKee, a director heading an opposition faction, was ended yesterday by official action of the National league, holding its spring meeting here.

Under the somewhat complicated terms of the agreement, Robinson resigned as president and director and was re-engaged as manager for two years. Frank B. York, attorney for McKee, and member of the board, was elected president for two years. Robinson's successor as a director will be named by Joseph A. Gillette, secretary and member of the board who represents the heirs of the late Charles H. Ebbets. Still another member of the board will be named by John A. Heyder, president of the National league. The directors when the slate is completed thus will consist of McKee, York, Gillette and the two appointees, one by Gillette and the other by Heyder.

The Brooklyn situation has been a sore spot in the league for some years. Robinson's three year contract as manager expired at the end of the 1929 season and McKee opposed its renewal while the Ebbets heirs, holding 50 per cent of the club's stock, stood solidly behind "Uncle Robbie". Strictly speaking the club has been without a manager since Robinson's contract expired.

The league also adopted the so-called "re-elected Barney Dreyfuss of Pittsburgh as vice president, and re-elected to the rules committee a supporter of Earl Fuchs of the Boston Braves that the rules be amended to permit umpires to eject players from games for a specified number of innings instead of for the duration of the contest.

The umpire slate for 1930 was approved as follows: William J. Klein, Charles Rigler, Ernest C. Quigley, John E. Ryan, Louis D. Jordan, Albert D. Stark, George Magrath, all novices; and Mike R. Donohue, St. Louis; Robert M. Clarke, Washington, D. C.; and Ted McGraw, Indianapolis, new men. This trio will succeed Bob Hart, Eddie McLaughlin and Barry McCormick Clarke who from the International league; Donohue from the Texas league and McGraw from the American association.

YANKEES WILL PEDdle DUROCHER, SHORTSTOP

New York—(AP)—Waivers have been asked by the New York Yankees on Leo Durocher, shortstop, who batted .216 in 106 games last year.

STREET SAYS FRISCH WILL PLAY SECOND BASE

St. Louis—(AP)—Frankie Frisch is to be at second base for the Cardinals when the National league race opens this spring. Manager Gabby Street declares, despite efforts of the stove league to shift him to third following the purchase of Sparky Adams from Pittsburgh.

Street avers the former Fordham coach is too good at double plays to be moved from the keystone post. The new card manager added he wouldn't know the identity of his third baseman until "I look them over in spring training."

OSHKOSH CAGERS WIN FROM CORDS

Appleton Team Leads at End of First Quarter, Then Goes into Slump

Perplexed by the refereeing of Carl Doehling, who directs athletics over at Ripon college and therefore seldom friendly to former Lawrence college stars, Miller Cords of Appleton went down to defeat before Oshkosh pros Tuesday evening over at Oshkosh. The score was 38 and 22 when final check was made.

Doehling threw a crimp in the Cord offense in the first few minutes of play by hanging three personal fouls on Jake Zussman and thereby fouling his maneuvers. However, Appleton managed to hold a 7 and 4 lead at the end of the quarter and trailed 19 and 14 at the half time.

In the second half, Ross, Oshkosh center, started on a rampage along with Halverson, forward and they gave Oshkosh a 30 and 11 lead at the end of the third quarter which was increased to 38 and 22 at the end of the game.

"TINY" ROEBUCK SIGNED TO BATTLE CARNERA

St. Louis—(AP)—Joe "Tiny" Roebuck, Kansas City heavy weight who was a football star for the Haskell Indians, will be the fourth man to meet Primo Carnera, the Italian leviathan, in an American ring. The man of mammoth size has dimensions to a St. Louis audience in the new arena Tuesday night.

Roebuck, who could not be considered a dwarf in his proportions at 2 1/2 feet 4 inches and 230 pounds, was picked from a score of possibilities. Promoter Mike Malloy said. The Indian had a one-round knockout of Big Boy Peterson, whom Carnera kayaked in his New York debut to his credit.

Baltimore—Jack McVey, New York, outpointed Tiger Thomas, Louisville, Pa. (10).

Los Angeles—Eddie Mack, Denver, knocked out Joey Sangor, Milwaukee (5).

CARNERA CLEARED OF WRONG DOING IN BOUT WITH RIOUX

Referee, Judges Testify That Canuck Was Victim of Fright

CHICAGO—(AP)—Primo Carnera, Italy's fighting giant, has frightened Elmer Rioux, the wood chopping heavyweight from Montreal, into an indefinite and involuntary retirement from Illinois rings.

Rioux went into his forced retirement yesterday at the order of the Illinois State Athletic commission, which concluded after an investigation that Rioux alone was responsible for his unsatisfactory showing against the Italian man mountain at the stadium Friday night.

In addition to his banishment, the commission fined him $1,000 and revoked his license, the maximum penalty in this state. Carnera, who won the lop-sided match by a knockout after just 47 seconds, was held blameless by the commission and enriched by approximately $16,000, his share of the gate which was held up pending the outcome of the investigation.

Dave Barry, referee of the abbreviated match which resulted in bores from fans and shouts of fake, told the commission that Rioux was only a victim of fright and that he saw no signs of a conspiracy for a "dive" on the part of the Canadian. Even before he entered the ring, Barry said, Rioux appeared rigid with fear and when the bell clanged for the start of the match Rioux stood in the center stunned and too frightened to life his hands for defense.

The two judges at the match, E. L. Cook and W. A. Batty, agreed that Rioux hit the floor five times without being hit hard enough to topple over a bantamweight. The punch that sent him to the floor, flat on his face, for the sixth and final count was described by them as well directed but not hard enough to produce drowsiness.

Rioux admitted he was "very scared" and that he didn't know what it was all about after Carnera landed his first blow.

Carnera wasn't present at the hearing which cleared him, but testified by deposition that he believed, too, that Rioux was a victim of fright.

Warren Brown, sports editor of the Chicago Herald and Examiner, who told the commission he did not think Rioux was a fit opponent and that the bout shouldn't have been sanctioned or promoted, today classified the event as the "prize making" fiasco in the history of commission-governed boxing in the state of Illinois.

COUNCIL PUTS OFF FINAL DECISION ON OUTSIDE FIRE CALLS

Representatives of Towns Will Present Recommendation to Committee

Kaukauna—Chairmen of the townships in this vicinity and the city council met Tuesday evening in the council chambers here and discussed the question of answering out-of-city fire calls by the Kaukauna fire department.

Representatives of the towns will meet with the town supervisors, and will report to the council fire committee before Tuesday, Feb. 18. The fire committee will then draw up a temporary ordinance covering the question and will present it to the council for its approval. The ordinance, if approved, will then be presented to the towns for action at the annual meeting of town supervisors. The action was proposed by Alderman E. A. Brewster.

Until that time the city will answer outside fire alarms in the past, according to Mayor W. C. Sullivan. It was pointed out by the council that the city desires protection for the firemen and fire apparatus when such calls are answered, and wants a fixed rate for each call. The town could buy protection in the form of insurance on money raised from the town taxes, it was pointed out. President A. Jensen of Little Chute stated that the proposal of the city was fair and that a city should be reimbursed for such service.

Alderman E. R. Landreman said that the city is always glad to furnish service to the towns, but he urged farmers to buy fire fighting equipment, such as extinguishers, instead of waiting for cities to answer alarms. He pointed out that much property could be saved in this way. Several representatives of the various towns stated that the greatest cooperation would be given and agreed that a suitable arrangement could be made.

TRAINS WILL BREAK
Long freight trains stopping for any length of time on the Chicago and Northwestern railroad tracks on the north side of the city will break at the crossings to enable traffic to pass, it was promised by a representative of the railroad company. He pointed out that instructions have been issued to trainmen to see that this is done. Two men already have been censured for violating this rule. A speed limit for trains passing through the city also has been set, it was reported.

The representative also stated that it is sometimes impossible to clear the crossings in five minutes. This has happened several times in this city, he pointed out. When a long freight train must remain for any length of time, at least one break in the train will be made at the crossing.

Mayor W. C. Sullivan said that if any more mischief is done to the trains a report should be made to the police department. The council gave a vote of thanks to the company for sending a man to make an explanation.

ASK FOR EMPLOYMENT
A petition signed by about 60 unemployed men of the city was presented to the council asking cooperation in securing employment. About 40 of the signers were present at the meeting. William Gantner, who acted as spokesman, asked the council to appoint a committee to meet with the advancement association and employers of the city in an endeavor to work for the idle men.

Mayor W. C. Sullivan responded that he could appoint a committee to work on the matter, but added that the council is in no position to take official action. Such working conditions are found all over the country now he said, and if no relief is in sight in a few months a request will be made by the city to the state to start immediate work on the proposed Lawrence bridge.

After a lively discussion it was decided to give $250 for the health clinic at the Mid-winter fair late this month by a 6 to 4 vote. The four who voted against the appropriation believed that the clinic could be held without city aid. The other aldermen stated that the money would be well spent. Those who voted against the motion were Aldermen W. Carnot, E. A. Brewster, F. Gertz and B. Roberts. The aid was asked for by the Kaukauna Advancement association through Lester Brenzel. Aid to the extent of $250 was given for the clinic by the council for the last two years.

$190 DEPOSITED BY KAUKAUNA STUDENTS

Kaukauna—A total of $190.45 was deposited in the school bank by high school students Tuesday. It is the largest sum to be deposited during the year. The school banked 10 per cent with the juniors winning the weekly honor banner for the first time in the semester with an average deposit of $2.01 per student. Seniors banked $16.29, juniors $127.23, sophomores $14.87 and freshmen $31.27. The Junior high school also banked 109 per cent.

The Post-Crescent's representative at Kaukauna is Lloyd Deras. His telephone number is 194-W. Business with The Post-Crescent may be transacted through Mr. Deras.

REPORT TWO STUDENT FUNDS ARE OVERDRAWN

Kaukauna—Two funds of high school students are overdrawn, according to the monthly report prepared by Principal Olin G. Dryer. They are the athletic fund, which is overdrawn by $182.76, and the forensics fund, which is overdrawn by $10.54. The grand total of all the funds at the beginning of January was $473.68 and at the beginning of February $598.71.

DE PERE DEFEATS HIGH SCHOOL FIVE

Kaukauna Team, Leading at Half, Withdraws Late in Game to Lose, 20-10

Kaukauna—After leading until half-time by a score of 7-5, Coach Paul E. Little's local basketball team dropped a Northwestern Wisconsin Conference game at the auditorium here Tuesday evening to East De Pere, 20-10.

Vanlieshout, Kaw guard, started the scoring shortly after the opening of the quarter with a free throw. De Pere retaliated with a free throw by Jacobson. About the middle of the quarter Dick Kaw forward, dropped one through the hoop to finish the scoring for the quarter, the period ending 3-1 in the Littlemen's favor.

The scoring was brought to an abrupt halt until Vanlieshout was fouled and sunk both tosses. Displaying remarkable ability, Fleck of De Pere dribbled to the basket twice and succeeded in garnering two field goals. But De Pere was unable to hold the pace set by the Kaukauna and Vanlieshout sunk a basket to retain the Kawmen's lead at the half, 7-5.

During the third and final stanzas the visitors had little difficulty in locating the hoop and Fleck led the scoring with three field goals. The third quarter ended with the visitors leading 14-9. But with the Kawmen things were happening very differently for although they succeeded in getting the ball to the basket they could not find the hoop.

FELLERS ROLLS 244 IN CITY BOWLING LEAGUE

Kaukauna—H. Feller rolled 244 for high single score Monday evening in the City Bowling league. Cash prizes were won by H. Baier, H. Frank, Leo Nagan and E. Grebe for rolling high single game and high series in their shift. Electric Dept. won two out of three games from the Bankers; Philco Radios won two out of three games from Bayorgens Best and Van's Dairy won two out of three games from the U. S. Engineers.

COUNCIL BOOSTS PAY OF NURSE AND POLICE OFFICERS

Policemen's Salaries Increased from $1,500 to $1,620

Kaukauna—Salaries of the city nurse and city policemen were raised by the common council Tuesday evening. The salary of the nurse was increased from $1,800 to $2,000, while the salaries of the policemen were raised from $1,500 to $1,620.

James McFadden, special police for many years, was recommended by the council for promotion to assistant chief of police. The work of Officer McFadden was praised by the councilmen, who recalled the incident last year when he saved a little girl who fell off Lawe's bridge into the Fox river canal. The recommendation was made to the fire and police commission. His salary would be $1,680, it was recommended.

The ordinance fixing the salaries was passed by a 6 to 4 vote. A clause in the resolution prohibiting firemen from doing any other kind of work outside of duty hours, except on their own premises was removed by a 6 to 4 vote. This clause was in the ordinance last year. Alderman E. R. Landreman said that it interfered with the personal rights of the men. Aldermen W. Carnot and O. Luedtke claimed that no man can hold down two jobs well. Those who voted against removing the clause from the ordinance were Alderman Carnot, Luedtke, E. Faust and F. Gertz. They also voted against passage of the ordinance on this account, although there was no disagreement on the counts of the salaries.

Salaries for city officials are: Mayor, $600; city clerk, $7,400; treasurer, $720; assessor, $600; city attorney, $720; with $10 per day for court attendance; city nurse, $2,000; city physician, $500; fire chief, $200; with $150 for fire inspections; fire captain, $1,560; firemen, $1,320 first year, $1,380 second year; $1,500 third year; chief of police, $2,100; assistant chief of police, $1,680; policemen, $1,620; street commissioners, $1,500; members of the board of public works, $50; utility commissioners, $100; aldermen, $120.

END FAT

THE WAY IS SHORT AND EASY

MOST women in these days know the right way to fight fat. Some are told by their physicians, some by friends. And for 22 years millions have been reading about Marmola. Those who starve to reduce, or who don't reduce, form a minority now.

This has come about since science discovered a great cause of excess fat. It lies in an under-active gland. All the world over, they who treat obesity now aim to correct that cause.

The method they use is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 22 years—millions of boxes of them. They have told the results to others. So the changed conditions seen today are largely due to Marmola.

A book in each box of Marmola gives the formula and explains the reasons for all good results. When you gain new youth and beauty, new health and vigor, you know why. No abnormal exercise or diet is advised. This modern method combats the cause.

Marmola has for many years held top place in this field. Anyone who is over-fat should test it, in justice to herself. It is not only the easy but the right way to reduce. Learn how much it means to you. Start now.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 a box. Any druggist who is not will gladly order for you.

Of Interest To Farmers

This Farmer Is Sold On Alfalfa And Sweet Clover

BY W. F. WINSEY
Either to aid him in dairying on a large scale or to be used as cash crops, Walter H. Wieckert, route 4, is making a specialty of raising alfalfa, sweet clover and velvet barley. In June last summer when cattle on Timothy, June grass and wild pasture were staved out on account of the drought and had to be fed on hay in the stables, the Wieckerts were reaping in an abundance of the choicest kind of pasture and were responding with a big flow of milk. Owing to its wonderful root system and rapid growth, the sweet clover pasture supplied all of his farm animals with feed till the freeze-up in the fall. According to Mr. Wieckert, the United States Department of Agriculture, the Wisconsin agents, and all farmers who have given sweet clover a fair trial, no known pasture is equal to sweet clover in the amount of feed supplied and in milk production. Its great advantage over alfalfa, its closest competitor, is that alfalfa causes bloat in cattle and sweet clover does not as cattle do not gorge themselves on sweet clover as they do on alfalfa.

Mr. Wieckert is just as enthusiastic over alfalfa for hay as he is over sweet clover for pasture. During the past 15 or 20 years he has found alfalfa just as easy to raise as other kinds of legumes. On his alfalfa field he uses considerable manure and cows Blackfoot Grimm's alfalfa seed. While being very palatable to cattle, a great milk producer, and a saving in commercial feeds, Mr. Wieckert says that alfalfa is the best paying cash crop that he can raise on his farm. His crop of last season was one hundred seventy-eight tons at an average of over $21.00 per ton. Just recently he loaded out two cars. He says that crops following alfalfa produce big yields.

The chief advantage for the farmers of velvet barley over other kinds is that the velvet variety causes no more annoyance in binding, shocking, threshing and in handling the straw than does wheat or oats, and it is in considerable demand for seed. Of the velvet kind, Mr. Wieckert has a surplus of 250 bushels. He considers barley a good yielder and one of the best grains raised as feed for farm animals.

8 MILLION FOR QUEBEC FROM SALE OF LIQUOR

Quebec—(AP)—The provincial treasury of Quebec was enriched by $8,042,762 from the sale of liquor during the year 1928-29. It was shown today in the eighth annual report of the Quebec liquor commission. To this was added $1,644,515 in revenue from seizures. It was the biggest year in the history of the commission.

The report of the commission showed gross receipts of $27,007,430 from sales, with purchases of stock, operating charges and other expenses totaling $9,829,053. Customs, excise and sales taxes paid to the Dominion government amounted to $9,334,619.

For 1927-28 the turnover to the treasury was $6,500,000 the previous record. Sales showed an approximate increase of $3,000,000 in 1928-29 over the previous year.

Chapter 23
THE LUCKY BAG

WITHIN a few minutes Peggy had regained her self-control and, thankful no one had been present to witness her breakdown, she dried her eyes, dabbed on more powder to cover the tear stains and sat back in her chair.

Peggy's spirits soared high as the inevitable reaction set in, she was of too buoyant and happy a temperament to remain long, downcast. Why should she worry?

She bent forward and consulted the calendar on the desk—but 13 days remained to the 17th of June. An unlucky number—perhaps! Peggy's determination to remain at Yew Lodge for that length of time grew adamant, nothing should lunge her; the detectives could come to her, and her exercise hereafter would be an hour's constitutional around the house, with Julia timing her.

She would leave no loophole for the courts to award Yew Lodge to Comm. Jamieson Sinclair—she was commencing to loathe the man, even his name was growing obnoxious.

With her arms resting on the desk, Peggy did some figuring; she had just enough ready cash to meet current expenses for the month, provided she included the $20 gold-piece she had found in the old Bible two nights before.

The goldpiece again brought to mind the Bible and its three underscored passages. No need to look at the pages again—she could recite them blindfolded.

"God's news from a far country," she repeated, aloud. "First not thyself because of evil doers." When thou hast found it, then there shall be a reward, and thy expectation shall not be cut off."

The disjointed phrases, when run together, Peggy sat up. Was her too vivid imagination playing her false, was she attaching too much importance to this message "from a far country?"

And, strange as it seemed, the completed message, as she recited it, seemed most appropriate to her situation. Evil men, Edgar Stanton, for instance, had "fretted" her, to put it mildly; her "expectation" of a large inheritance had been summarily "cut off" by the news that her uncle's negotiable securities were missing.

But if those quotations applied to her did not fit the passage, "When thou hast found it, then there shall be a reward," hold an even deeper significance? Suppose it related to the missing securities? Suppose her uncle himself had removed the securities and brought them to Yew Lodge and secreted them in some secret hiding place?

Electrified by the thought, she sprang to her feet. If Herbert Prescott had gone daft on religion, what more likely than that he had used those passages to cloak the hiding place of his wealth?

She paused with her hand on the two Bibles; she had already gone over them again and again and had found no more black arrows on the margins of any page.

Perhaps if she could locate the missing pages from the big Bible, she might be some indication—there had four: the book in the present in the padlocked room; why not, therefore, investigate that one more thoroughly?

The thought appealed and Peggy searched in one of the smaller Bibles of the desk which she kept locked; she had placed the key here, carefully marked. Locating with several others, she went to get her electric torch. But at the cellar stairs she hesitated; Julia had not returned and she was alone in the house. For a moment doubt assailed her, then, with a characteristic toss of her head, she ran down the stairs.

Pacing her torch where the light would play directly on the door, she thrust the key into the padlock. It would not turn. Surprised, she tried inserting it upside down, but that did not work either.

Much perturbed she withdrew the key and examined the tag attached to it. "Bedroom door in basement," so read her writing. Had she been such a fool as to attach the tag to the wrong key? Swiftly she tried the other house keys; none fitted.

Taffled, Peggy looked more closely at the padlock, and its fresh condition caught her attention. The padlock, as she recalled it, had been rusty; even the locksmith had spoken of it. Then how came this new padlock on the door?

Peggy stood upright, thinking, thinking—yes, she had gone upstairs leaving Obadiah Evans to close and lock the bedroom door. His might have given her the wrong key before leaving.

She opened her hand and held the long thin steel key under her torch; the marks made by the file of the locksmith as he fitted it to the padlock were plain upon it. No, decidedly the key was the same—but the padlock, that had been changed. By whom? Obadiah Evans had had the opportunity, but what motive would have inspired him to thus bar her from the room?

Under the windows toward the pond side stood several boxes, the upper one, a flat fruit box converted into a packing case, held books, and through the slats Peggy made out a larger volume lying under slats or more paper-lark novels. Suppose it was another Bible?

Spilling out the novels, she clutched the big volume and hastened back to the living room, first stopping to get a dustcloth out of the pantry. Layers of dust covered the book, and some of it, as she used her cloth with more vigor than discretion, got up her nose and in her eyes, half blinding her.

Discarding the cloth she peeped the book on the desk, and noted its pages—only to burst out laughing. Its highly glazed paper and half-tone illustrations of young men in uniform were far removed from the contents of ancient copies of the Holy Bible.

Peggy turned to the leather cover—its ornamental gold lettering supplied the title—The Lucky Bag. She had before her a copy of the class book issued yearly to the graduating class of midshipmen of the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

Peggy had seen its counterpart, The Howitzer the West Pointers' class book, often, but never before had she examined a copy of The Lucky Bag, and she spared a moment to read a number of the biographical sketches under the photographs of the midshipmen.

Toward the back the book opened naturally at a well-thumbed page; she looked into the eyes of a handsome young midshipman—top captain, to judge by the insignia on his uniform.

But Peggy had no eyes for anything but the face—youthful by 15 years or more, the half-tone was an indisputable likeness of Jim—her Jim—Obadiah Evan's Jim.

Unable to believe her senses she continued to stare at the printed page of The Lucky Bag.

UNCLE SAM TOOLS TO MAKE ITS SUBS GOOD DEAL SAFER

San Diego Tests Prove Trapped Men Can Escape from Sunken Hull

San Diego, Calif. — The Republic of France may have the most powerful submarine fleet in existence, with its new submersible deep-sea cruisers—

But the United States navy has the safest submarines afloat and is working to end submarine horrors, whether that means anything to the naval delegates now convening at London or not.

The London delegates are expected to consider whether or not the submarine ought not to be abolished in all navies. Meanwhile, however, the United States navy, at its Pacific base here, has been going ahead with the perfection of devices to make its submarines safer for the men who operate them. It is not going to have another disaster like those that befell the S-4 and the S-21 and drowned their crews like rats in a trap if it can help it.

MAKING RIGID TESTS

The submarine S-29, attached to the little fleet at the San Diego naval base, for these devices and rigorous safety tests are now being made. The S-29 is equipped with safety features that would enable its crew to escape even if it should become disabled and plunge to the bottom.

To begin with, it carries a stock of mechanical "lungs," invented by Lieutenant Charles E. Momsen, a submarine officer. The lungs is a rubberized bag with a capacity approximating that of a person's lungs, a rubber mouthpiece and a series of valves. Before using, the wearer fills the bag with oxygen from a tank in the submarine; and this supplies him while he is on his way to the surface.

Two methods of escape from a sunken submarine have been worked out: an escape lock, and an escape hatch. They are somewhat similar in principle, and each performs the task of getting the sailor out of a sunken submarine so that he can float to the surface. In the past all rescue efforts have been concentrated on raising the sunken hulk with the men inside.

Since the last big submarine disaster, all U. S. subs have been equipped with the lungs, although only the S-22 on the Atlantic side and the S-29 here have been provided with escape locks as yet.

HOW THEY ESCAPE

The escape lock is more elaborate than the escape hatch. It consists of a sizable turret-like room built on top of the submarine's hull, and entered from below by a ladder. The sailors — a large submarine carries about 80 men — enter it in groups of seven. Once inside, they close the trap doors leading from the compartment below, and open a sea valve which admits water into the lock from below.

The water rises until it is approximately chest-deep, when the bubble of air which it traps holds it stationary and forms an air pocket. The sailors then put on their mechanical lungs and fill them from the oxygen tanks.

Then two buoys are released. One, painted in bright colors, is a marker or signal buoy. It floats to the surface and marks the submarine's position so that rescue ships can find it easily. A telephone wire and instrument are included, so the men on the surface can talk to the men below, thus eliminating the necessity of sending down divers to hammer messages on the steel hull in the Morse code as in the tragic case of the S-4.

The other buoy supports the lines on which the men will go to the surface.

When these preparations have been made, the sailors open a door cut low in the side of the lock, duck down through it and step out into the water, holding on to the life-line as they rise to the surface.

MUST ASCEND SLOWLY

Extreme care must be taken not to come up too fast, for the sudden change from high pressure gives a man the dreaded "bends," which is often fatal. So a sailor escaping from a submarine has to stop every 10 feet and breathe deeply; 10 times at the first stop, 20 times at the second, and so on.

Eventually, he reaches the surface and clings to the buoy there or is picked up by a rescue ship.

The escape hatch is somewhat similar, but much more simple. It is simply a cylindrical tube extending downward through the submarine's deck, that is entered direct from the flooded compartment by men who find temporary safety in the air pocket created near the ceiling.

In a submarine equipped with both of these devices there are, accordingly, two methods for escape.

NO MORE WEARY TUNNELING

The S-29 is also equipped with a series of "pad eyes," or rings of steel attached to the outer shell. If a submarine is on the bottom, divers from the salvage ships can attach lifting pontoons to these rings without the laborious work of days in tunneling through the mud to pass cables underneath. In the effort to raise the S-31, which sank off Block Island several years ago, many weeks were wasted because the divers were forced to dig tunnels under the sunken hulk in order to pass cables and chains around it.

There are also numerous other less important safety features now in use.

Sailors attached to the S-29 have tested the escape hatch and escape

Pilots Pledge Selves To Find Lost Airmail Buddy

Las Vegas—When everyone else gets tired of fighting the blizzards and bitter cold of southern Utah and Nevada in the search for Maurics (Maury) Graham, night mail pilot who has been missing since Jan. 11, Graham's three closest pals will take up the hunt and stick to it until the end.

The three men who mean to find the missing aviator if it takes a year are Jimmy James, Al de Garmo and Fred W. Kelly. They have an incentive that no other searchers have—they are hunting for their best friend.

These three, with Graham, were the four original pilots of the Western Air Express. They started flying the Salt Lake City-Los Angeles mail route together, and because of their close friendship became known all along the line as the "Western Air Express" "Four Musketeers."

FOUND "LOST BATTALION"

In the World War, Graham won fame as the discoverer of the "Lost Battalion," in the Argonne forest. James, De Garmo and Kelly, determined to find their missing comrade, have the full support and sympathy of Western Air Express officials. Superintendent C. C. Cole, who has directed the great hunt by land and by air, in which no fewer than 45 airplanes have taken part at various times, has anticipated their wish. He plans to give the trio planes and equipment, after the other searchers give up, and let them hunt "where they choose."

De Garmo is now a pilot with the Boeing Air Transport, but as soon as Graham was reported missing he asked for and obtained a leave of absence so that he could join in the search.

Kelly, formerly an Olympic hurdling star, is chief pilot on the Los Angeles-Salt Lake link of the Western Air Express, and has never had even a forced landing. In 1923, he established a record by flying 115,760 miles during the year.

It would be hard to find three pilots better qualified to conduct such a search. They know the country thoroughly, they know the weather hazards of a Rocky Mountain winter from long experience, and they are spurred to extra effort by the fact that Graham is their best friend.

With 750 pounds of mail, Graham took off from Las Vegas airport on the night of Jan. 10 in a blinding blizzard and vanished into the unknown. Dozens of airplanes have flown out to hunt for him, scouring the desert wilderness and jagged mountain fastnesses between Las Vegas and Salt Lake City without finding any trace.

A thorough ground hunt, carried on by hundreds of Union Pacific railroad employees, miners, ranchers, sheep herders and prospectors, has supplemented the aerial search.

Bitter cold weather, blizzards and deep snow have made the job a difficult one.

Every report has been checked and rechecked, every clue has been followed until it disappeared, but nothing of value has been found. It is believed that Graham crashed in the storm and that his plane burned leaving no traces that could be seen from the air. Some believe that his plane simply crashed and was hidden beneath the falling snow.

If he was not killed in the forced landing, it is feared that he met death trying to walk to civilization. There was one report that he was captured by Indians. The emergency

COUNTY GETS CHECK FOR STATE AID ON HIGHWAYS

Miss Marie Ziegenhagen, county treasurer, Murday received a check for $29,156 from the state highway department as the county's portion of state aid on town roads for 1930. Frank Appleton, highway commissioner, said that this check permits the expenditure of $25 on each mile of town road in the county. The money is spent in improvements, maintenance and repairs by the county highway department.

cy rations he carried would have given out long before this. He also carried blankets and a small emergency stove.

But James, De Garmo and Kelly insist they will stick to it. They will take up the hunt where the others leave off, and they will not give up until they find Graham or his lifeless body.
